HOUSE BODY SEEKS TO CUT MILLIONS FROM RELIEF FUND

Appropriations Subcommittee Asks Restrictions After $875,000,000 Request Is Reduced

LAGUARDIA FIGHTS FOR LARGER SUM

New York Mayor, Workers' Alliance, CIO Officials Battle Reduction.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Democratic members of the house appropriations subcommittee which is considering President Roosevelt's request for $875,000,000 to finance relief until July 1, agreed at a secret meeting today to slice millions from this figure and to impose restrictions on its expenditure.

Those who took part in the caucus insisted that no agreement had been reached on the exact amount which the subcommittee will recommend to the full committee when it meets Wednesday. But it was reported that the ultimate figure would be in the vicinity of $625,000,000.

Roosevelt Informed.
House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn is reported to have informed President Roosevelt at the White House conference of legislative leaders this morning that there is strong opposition to the larger appropriation.

Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts, told newspapermen that his group would fight vigorously against a grant of $875,000,000 and at the same time expressed doubt that the President actually hoped to get that much.

"I think it is his 'asking' price," he said. "That gives him leeway for a little trading. We'll oppose the larger figure on the ground that that much is not needed."

Formal Hearings.
The subcommittee concluded formal hearings on the measure today after listening to widely divergent estimates of the essential size of the appropriation from Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York; David Lasser, head of the Workers' Alliance, an organization of relief workers, and Ralph Hetzel Jr., unemployment director of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The trio insisted that even $875,000,000 would be inadequate. LaGuardia called for a minimum of $915,000,000 and drew a critical picture of the unemployment situation in New York and other large industrial states. Lasser demanded an additional $1,050,000,000 while Hetzel said $1,000,000,000 would be sufficient.

Chairman Clifton A. Woodrum, Democrat, Virginia, who previously had stated that the appropriation should not be in excess of $500,000,000, now has agreed that it will have to be somewhat larger but still clings to his original position that the President's estimate is too high.

Rider to Bill.
Woodrum and his aides agreed at the conference today, it was reported, to add a rider to the bill which would thwart the President's recommendations that all state Works Progress administrators and their assistants be blanketed.

Georgia's Senate and House Leaders Organize for Efficient Legislative Teamwork

Legislative leaders lost no time in getting down to work yesterday. These key men of the house held a council of war after their appointments by Speaker Roy V. Harris. Representative William H. Key, of Jasper, seated, was renamed chairman of the appropriations committee. Standing from left to right are Representative Henderson Lanham, of Floyd county, new chairman of the important ways and means committee; Speaker Pro Tem, John S. Parker, of Colquitt county, and Representative Frank Gross, of Stephens county, house floor leader.

CHAMBERLAIN SET FOR ROME TALKS

British Prime Minister Will Leave Early Today for Crucial Conference.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(P)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain turned toward Rome tonight to continue his appeasement program west of the Rhine.

In conferences with Premier Benito Mussolini, the British statesman will discuss differences between the dictatorships and democracies west of the famous river as he did in Munich when he and Hitler came to an understanding on affairs beyond its eastern bank.

Those differences encompass a wider range of problems, including:

1. The Italo-French dispute raised by Fascist clamor for concessions in France's colonial empire.
2. The Spanish civil war.
3. Removal of Jews from Germany.
4. Economic advantages for Italy in the near east.

To Stop for Tea.

Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and a delegation of six, will leave London at 5 a. m. (Atlanta time), tomorrow.

A significant stop "for tea" will be made in Paris with Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet before the British party proceeds to Rome for the visit which will extend from Wednesday through Saturday.

Chamberlain conferred with his key ministers today and well-informed sources said the British cabinet and the Prime Minister were prepared to support France in resisting Italian clamor for a share in the French colonial empire.

It also was indicated strongly that Chamberlain would ask Mussolini to relax the Fascist press campaign in which the colonial claims have been advanced.

To Discuss Jews.

Mussolini's open-minded attitude toward an appeal from President Roosevelt for assistance in resettling Jewish refugees raised a far-reaching subject.

Chamberlain likewise has taken a keen interest in the plight of the Jews. While he is in Rome, George Rublee, executive director of the inter-governmental committee for refugees, will be in Berlin for discussions of the problem and the Prime Minister has arranged to be kept informed of the progress of Rublee's visit.

It was considered likely Chamberlain would ask Il Duce to lend his assistance and influence with Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Senate President John B. Spivey is shown as he was re-elected president of the upper branch of the assembly yesterday, one of the few men ever to head the senate for a second term.

HULL LAUDS ACTS OF LIMA CONGRESS

Lands in New York From Peru, Cites Benefits Gained at Conference.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(P)—Cordell Hull, secretary of state, returned today from his third Pan-American conference with a call to the world to embrace the principles adopted at Lima.

Arriving from Callao, Peru, the 67-year-old helmsman of American foreign policy declared:

"I return from the conference with the conviction that its results will be of real and permanent value and that as time goes on the far-reaching effects of the principles there enunciated will become more apparent, and more significant."

"Those principles offer a charter for international conduct, based upon equality, justice and freedom—the indispensable foundation of peaceful and friendly relations."

'It Won't Make the Course Easier,' Frankfurter Greets Class Acclaim

New Supreme Court Justice Perches Himself on Back of Chair and Grins as He Takes Up First Lesson Since Appointment.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 9.—(P)—While the likenesses of supreme court justices of the past looked down from classroom walls, Felix Frankfurter, newest appointee to the nation's highest tribunal, perched himself comfortably on the back of a chair today to conduct his Harvard law class in "public utilities."

A burst of student applause greeted the stocky Frankfurter as he strode down the aisle for his first class since his nomination to the supreme court last week. As he reached the platform, he turned with a grin and remarked:

"Thank you—but it won't make the course any easier."

Apparently surprised when he glanced at the back of the room and noted it was packed with standees, he grinned again and called:

"Remember, gentlemen, there are still fire laws and other regulations to be observed."

Guests hastily snuffed out cigarettes as Frankfurter's high-pitched voice resumed: "At the end of the last hour we were discussing—"

CANDLER TO OFFER FOR DEKALB POST

Mass Meeting Tonight at Courthouse Expected To Hear Announcement.

Scott Candler, mayor of Decatur and Georgia manager of RFC, will announce his candidacy for the unexpired term of the late DeKalb County Commissioner Charles A. Matthews at a mass meeting to be held tonight, it was learned last night.

Friends of Candler scheduled the meeting for 8 o'clock at the courthouse, and political observers predicted he will accede to the importunities of hundreds of persons to make the race.

Candler yesterday said he was "thinking strongly" of entering the lists.

J. M. Feemster, grocer, of 119 North Candler street, Decatur, yesterday announced, and James R. Venable, attorney, entered the lists Sunday.

CANDLER AND COX FACE PARTY PURGE

RFC Seeks Successor to George Friend; Russell Rebuffed on Marshal.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Staff Correspondent. Pictures on Page 2.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—An apparent determination of administration political heads to go forward with the purge initiated last summer was indicated today when it was learned that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has taken steps looking to the appointment of a successor to Scott Candler, manager of the RFC agency in Georgia.

Candler, former commander of the state Legion, is said to be slated for retirement because of his support of Senator George last fall.

Acting on a recommendation from United States District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, unsuccessful administration candidate against George, RFC officials, it was learned, are making an inquiry into the qualifications of Leo Barbour, Moultrie banker. The Moultrie man is understood to have been a strong backer of Camp.

Russell Visit.
At the same time it was reported that Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia, on a recent visit to the Department of Justice, was informed definitely that officials there have decided not to recommend the reappointment of United States Marshal Charles H. Cox, of the northern judicial district, whose term has expired. The junior senator, on whose endorsement Cox was appointed, had gone to advance the latter's name for another four-year term. The same objection applying to Candler is understood to be the underlying cause of the department's refusal to recommend another term for Cox, both having been listed as supporters of Senator George as against Camp.

Senators Silent.
No statement was available tonight from either Senator George or Senator Russell. Neither of the two senators is understood to have been given any advance information of the RFC's move.

On a visit to Washington last fall following the state primaries Camp was said to have brought with him a list of candidates he was prepared to advance for some of the key federal patronage positions.

Barbour and Candler both declined to comment last night on the report. Camp was in Washington. Cox also said he "had nothing to say" relative to his situation.

BOONE REPLACED AS HOUSE CLERK BY RIVERS CHOICE

Biennial Session Organized With Governor Clearly Holding Safe Majority in Each Branch

EVANS ACCORDED HANDFUL OF VOTES

Smith and Parker Are Selected Pro Tem. Officers by Membership.

By L. A. FARRELL.

With administration adherents taking full control, the general assembly was organized yesterday for its biennial session, the senate re-electing Senator John B. Spivey, of Swainsboro, president without opposition and the house renaming Representative Roy V. Harris, of Richmond county, its speaker over anti-administrationist Randall Evans, of McDuffie county, who obtained only 13 votes.

Harris got 185 votes. Seven members did not vote.

The Rivers administration also was successful in its effort to replace Joe Boone, of Irwinton, as clerk of the house. John W. Greer Jr., of Cordele, a confidante of the Governor, was chosen over Boone, 112 to 83. John W. Hammond, of Macon, was renamed secretary of the senate.

Senator H. Dixon Smith, of Columbus, was elected president pro tem, of the senate, while Representative John C. Parker, of Colquitt county, was renamed without opposition as speaker pro tem, of the house. Both are considered friendly to the administration.

Spivey Appointments.

Senate President Spivey formally announced appointment of Senator Adie W. Durden, of Albany, to be vice chairman of the rules committee; Senator Wallace Harrell, of Quitman, to be chairman of the powerful finance committee, and Senator Ernest Palmour Jr., of Gainesville, to the chairmanship of the appropriations committee.

Speaker Harris named Representative Frank Gross, of Stephens county, vice chairman of the rules committee and administration floor leader. He chose Representative Henderson Lanham, of Floyd county, to be chairman of the important ways and means committee, which will have the first consideration of all tax bills introduced during the session. Representative William H. Key, of Jasper, was reappointed.

ATLANTA COUPLE IS FOUND HANGED; INQUEST PLANNED

Paul O. Bennett, Street Car Motorman, and His Wife Discovered After Friends Become Worried

Paul O. Bennett, 47, veteran street car operator, and his wife, Florence, 45, were found dead early last night in their first-floor apartment at 641 North Highland avenue. Both had been hanged, and apparently had been dead several days.

Captain G. N. Ellis and Lieutenant R. E. McLean said there was a large bruise on Mrs. Bennett's right temple. Coroner Paul B. Donohoe said an inquest would be held. The bodies were taken to the establishment of Harry G. Poole.

Police reported the woman's body was in the bathroom, an awning rope tied around her neck. Bennett's body was in a small hallway near the bathroom. He had been hanged with a section of electric light cord.

The Bennett's pet bulldog, Bay, whom neighbors had heard barking for the last few days, was yelping from hunger when F. M. Marsh, caretaker, entered the apartment through a window.

E. H. Sims, apartment manager, said the couple had not been seen since last Friday night. Bennett had been off work since last Wednesday. He was an employee of the Georgia Power Company for 18 years and had an excellent record.

The bodies—Bennett in pajamas and his wife fully clothed—were recovered after E. W. Roberts, of 509 Boulevard, N. E., and Mrs. C. W. McDougall, of 521 Boulevard, N. E., friends, failed to get a response to knocks on the door.

HOPKINS TO FACE HIS BITTER FOES

Senate Commerce Committee Invites Ex-WPA Head To Open Hearings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—President Roosevelt's recent appointments, including Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, ran afoul of powerful coalition opposition in congress today, casting some doubt on the probability that they will win early senate confirmation.

The senate commerce committee headed by Senator Josiah W. Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, decided to hold open hearings beginning Wednesday on Hopkins' nomination, and invited the former relief administrator to appear. Bailey dislikes Hopkins and the New Deal intensely and engineered the hearing so as to obtain a public exhibition of Hopkins' political philosophy.

Meantime, Virginia's anti-administration Democrats, Senators Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd, bitterly criticized the President's appointment of Floyd Roberts as a federal district judge.

In contrast, opposition to the nomination of former Governor Frank Murphy, of Michigan, as attorney general and Professor Felix Frankfurter as a supreme court justice did not materialize to any appreciable extent.

The anti-Hopkins coalition is expected to create its share of embarrassing moments for the former relief chieftain when he is questioned at length regarding his administration of WPA and the part, if any, played by the agency in the fall elections.

Hopkins said he would accept the invitation and will appear Wednesday.

D.A.V. Commander Hails Arms Plan In Address Before Atlanta Veterans

Galvin Indorses Rearming as Evidence U. S. Is 'Looking Ahead' and Declares Our Military Machine Is Instrument of Peace.

President Roosevelt's national defense program and the plan to train thousands of the nation's youths as pilots indicate the United States is "looking ahead," Owen A. Galvin, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, declared yesterday.

"The American people should look upon the military machine as an instrument of peace rather than an instrument of war," he asserted. The national commander addressed a mass meeting of ex-service men last night at the city hall. He was accompanied here by Mrs. Galvin and Brian J. Thornton, of Cincinnati.

"During the last war we would not have had ruthless submarine warfare if the central powers had been convinced that we could offer serious opposition," he continued.

Speaking of the plan to inaugurate air training in various colleges of the United States, one of which is Georgia Tech, Galvin said: "There is no question that aviation is going to play an important part in any future conflicts. We can't get away from the fact that preparedness is a means of averting war."

Turning to the problem of unemployment, the national commander said one of the principal objectives of the Disabled War Veterans is to put men to work.

"We're asking that we have a genuine civil service law rather than the theoretical one such as we have now," he declared. "We are also encouraging industry and employers to give serious consideration to the unemployment problems as it affects disabled men."

He said unemployment is prevalent with all classes and added, "It's a problem we've had for the last 20 years."

Galvin thinks the best way to fight off a concerted drive for pensions is to provide jobs for the ex-service men. Incidentally, this is one of the principal planks in the organization's legislative program.

There is some danger from alien influences in certain parts of the country, he said, but explained the Disabled American Veterans are carrying on a vigorous program to halt such movements.

Report on Allens. "When we discover aliens who have been in this country a considerable length of time and have shown no inclination to become citizens, we report them," he said. "And we are definitely opposed to aliens being employed in munitions factories or naval establishments."

At the mass meeting last night Galvin reviewed part of the history of the Disabled War Veterans and discussed the legislative program.

The visitors were entertained at a barbecue at the county park yesterday by the Morton T. Nicholas and Betty Harrison Jones chapters of the organization.

HULL CURBED SALES OF PLANES TO JAPAN

Munitions Board Report Shows Strong Pressure Put on Manufacturers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull last summer put strong moral pressure on manufacturers and exporters in a partially successful attempt to shut off sales of American military planes and aerial bombs to Japan, it was revealed today.

The disclosure was contained in the National Munitions Control Board's report to congress, which showed that Hull sent a round-robin letter to all American manufacturers and exporters of planes and parts, deploring sale of such products to nations which bomb civilian populations from the air.

Since a strict embargo was at that time, and still is, in effect against Spain, observers said that Hull's message obviously referred to Japanese sales.

NORRIS AND BRIDGES CLASH OVER POPE

Lilienthal May Die of Overwork, TVA Advocate Tells Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The right of former Senator James P. Pope, of Idaho, to become a director of the Tennessee Valley Authority was sharply challenged and vigorously defended in senate debate today.

Senator Bridges, Republican, New Hampshire, contended that no vacancy on the board exists, and that President Roosevelt therefore had no right to nominate Pope. Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, who fathered the TVA act, defended Pope's right to the place.

At present, former Chairman A. E. Morgan, of the TVA, is contesting his ouster in the courts. President Roosevelt removed Morgan last spring on a charge of "contumacy," or resistance to authority.

Norris contended Bridges was demonstrating hate—"I might even say malice"—toward the TVA program. The Nebraska senator asserted that senate confirmation of Pope would have no effect on Morgan's pending suit, but Bridges disagreed, saying:

"I question the fairness of the senate in approving an appointment to a federal office in the question of the legality of the removal of the holder of that office before the federal courts."

"Although I am not a lawyer, it seems to me such action on the part of this body would tend to prejudice the court."

The aged Norris, striding back and forth behind his desk, said the question of Pope's nomination was not properly before the senate because it is still pending in the agricultural committee, which handles TVA matters.

He said that Director David E. Lilienthal, of the TVA recently has been suffering from a fever and from "overwork" and that a new board member should be installed soon to help with the TVA work. He said that if the senate wished to "kill" Lilienthal it would refuse confirmation of Pope.

SNELL VIEWING WITH DEEP ALARM

Retired Republican Finds Conditions Are 'Muddled.'

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Governmental spending, the appointment of Harry L. Hopkins to cabinet berth, the Wagner act and the administration's national defense program today were assailed by former Representative Bertrand N. Snell, Republican, New York, retired minority leader of the house.

In a speech before the Women's National Republican Club's school of politics, Snell said: "Looking back upon 24 years of continuous service in congress, I can truthfully say that never have I seen national affairs in a more muddled and dangerous posture than at the opening of the present congress."

eted under the civil service. The rider, it is understood, would specify that no money from the projected appropriation be diverted to pay the salaries of WPA officials so blanketed.

Opposition to this plan of the chief executive's stems from Republicans and from conservative Democrats who were alarmed by the report of the senate campaign expenditures committee showing widespread use of WPA funds and personnel in the recent primaries and elections and who are determined to fight to divorce politics from relief.

One Democratic member of the committee, who declined use of his name, told the United Press that he and his colleagues do not want to see WPA officials involved in the committee's report perpetuated in office.

Merit System. Martin expressed similar sentiments, but said that he favored the extension of civil service to WPA aides provided they were selected on a merit system and not through political preference.

The revolt within the committee was understood to have been the subject of a subsequent conference among Speaker William B. Bankhead, Rayburn, House Whip

Atlanta-Built 'Hummingbird' Plane Returns From Air Races in Miami

Makes 700-Mile Trip in Seven Hours, Averaging More Than 22 Miles to the Gallon With 50 Horsepower Engine; Quantity Production Planned.

Atlanta's "Hummingbird," a new type of light airplane manufactured here by A. L. Belle Isle and Wiley L. Moore, returned yesterday from its maiden flight to Miami, making the 700-mile trip in seven hours flat.

The ship was built from the ground up in but little more than two months and had been given only two short test hops before Pilot Doug Mason took off for the Miami air races last week.

Powered by a 50-horsepower motor, the plane uses the patented Meeth Vin slotted wing for added safety and to shorten the distance required for takeoffs and landings. It averaged more than 22 miles to the gallon on its first trials.

While in Miami it was demonstrated before some of the country's leading manufacturers, who expressed keen interest in its commercial possibilities.

Belle Isle was enthusiastic about the results of the trip and said that plans would be pushed for the formation of a company to be known as Belle Moore Aircraft, Inc., to manufacture the plane in quantities. It is designed to compete with the lowest priced ships now on the American market and is said to have many superior features.

TRUCE DECLARED IN CZECHO STRIFE

Hungarians and Carpatho-Ukrainians Agree To Withdraw Soldiers.

PRAGUE, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A temporary truce was declared tonight in the sporadic warfare over Czech-Slovak and Hungarian borderlands.

An official dispatch said both the Carpatho-Ukrainian and Hungarian forces agreed to withdraw two kilometers (1.24 mile) from the demarcation line in the Munkacs section, where fighting occurred Friday.

The agreement was reached at Chust, capital of Czechoslovakia's eastern province of Carpatho-Ukraine, according to the message to Prague.

It was further agreed that only unarmored officers would remain in the disturbed zone and that an exchange of prisoners would be made immediately.

JOHN W. DAVIS ILL. CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—John W. Davis, one-time Democratic nominee for President, is ill here at Riverside Infirmary, where he was reported resting "fairly well" tonight after an attack of influenza.

Patrick Boland, of Pennsylvania; Woodrum, Clarence Cannon, Democrat, Missouri, and Edward Taylor, Democrat, Col., chairman of the full appropriations committee. The conferees left this meeting tight-lipped and evaded all inquiries.

Also discussed, it was said, was legislative strategy to be followed in order to provoke the minimum opposition to the bill when it finally reaches the house floor. Leaders hope that the bill, which probably will provide the first test of Mr. Roosevelt's hold over new congressmen, may be reported out of the full committee in time to enact it before the week-end recess.

Harrington Testifies. The last witness before WPA's committee today was Woodrum Administrator F. C. Harrington. He told reporters that the $875,000,000 would meet relief costs only until July 1, whereas LaGuardia recommended the larger figure to finance relief throughout the month of July, in the event of congressional delays on relief legislation for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

LaGuardia, spokesman for the United States Conference of Mayors, told the committee that direct relief funds for the next five months require maintenance of a national WPA quota of at least 3,000,000 workers. He said that the mayors are vigorously opposed to any suggestion that the dole should be substituted for work relief and that they frown on revision to the old grants-in-aid system to the states.

GEORGIANS ATTEND FARM BILL HEARING

Stiles, Statham Also Confer With Owen on Agricultural Needs.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—R. M. Stiles, of Cartersville, and S. E. Statham, of Americus, who attended a joint meeting of the senate and house committees on agriculture here today, to listen to recommendations from a group of farmers representing all cotton states for a 1939 cotton program, left here today convinced that any new bill passed by the congress would be a great improvement over the 1938 farm control act.

Neither Mr. Stiles nor Mr. Statham made a verbal presentation before the committee, but they conferred at some length with Representative Emmett Owen, of Griffin, Georgia's only member of the house committee on agriculture.

Representative Owen had no comment to make on the meeting, but said he was prepared to accept receipt of formal resolutions to be prepared by cotton farmers of the country and presented to both the senate and house committees.

The joint meeting today was convened by a verbal exchange between Ramsey Aldridge, large cotton producer of Mississippi, and Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith, of South Carolina, chairman of the agricultural committee of the upper chamber. Aldridge had about completed a long speech before the joint meeting, indicating the millions of federal dollars needed to bring cotton out of the "red."

"You have a damn fine program there, Mr. Aldridge," Senator Smith interrupted, "but where the hell are you going to get the money?"

RELIEF BY FULTON REQUIRES CHANGE IN LAW--ALMAND

Commission and Social Planning Council Will Discuss Situation Friday; Restriction Cited.

Removal of legislative restrictions is mandatory if Fulton county is to assume the $806,975 relief burden, it was declared yesterday by Ed L. Almand, chairman of the Fulton county commission, in calling a joint conference of commissioners and members of the Social Planning Council for Friday.

C. L. Emerson, president of the council, several days ago wrote commission members urging the group to take over relief expenditures throughout the county for the year and asking a conference to study the matter.

Yesterday County Attorney Walter C. Hendrix directed a letter to Emerson, following conference with Almand, in which he recited legislative restrictions regarding administration of relief money. He set the conference date for 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Relief Limits.
The Hendrix letter pointed out that county expenditures for relief purposes are at present limited to paupers, and to the aged infirm, the blind and dependent children. "I think the law must be changed if we are to take over the entire relief burden, which the county is willing to do," Almand said. "Our entire board realizes that it would be better to center relief activities."

Total Expenditures.
"Relief expenditures in 1938 totaled $806,975, contributed jointly by Atlanta and Fulton county. The county levied one and one-fourth mills to support the poor as provided by law. This sum was $350,000 for 1938. We may levy up to three mills for aid in old-age pensions, for the blind and for dependent children."
"A general law authorizing the expenditure of portions of the levy for that class now known as 'unassigned employables' would suffice. Under the present general law, Fulton and other counties are limited in their levying to paupers and at least to unemployables."

All Holidays Must End--They Leave for College Halls

Parents, Friends and Best Beaux See Bevy of Belles Off for College

Christmasy Atmosphere Returns as Stephens Girls, Loaded With Farewell Gifts, Depart to Replace Date Books With Textbooks.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

They went back to college last night. That is, those Atlanta girls who attend Stephens College, in Columbia, Mo. They left from the Union station on the 6-40 and their parents, best friends (and best beaux) were there to tell them goodbye.

There were no tears shed. The whole crew was laden with boxes of candy, farewell gifts, with promises not to open until the train left. There were new fur coats on arms and shiny new baggage which had that unmistakable Santa Claus look.

The girls began gathering in the lobby of the station far before train time. There simply must be that last talk with "him." And then, of course, mother and father were on hand to give last-minute instructions.

Grouped in the station were such belles as George Dargan, Mary Jo Brownlee, Emmelyn Carter, Marjorie Armstrong, June Patten, Dana Shadburn, Ellie Murrah, Charlotte and Margaret Matthews, Barbara Nelson, Lucile Hartfield, and Helen Dietz. Rachel Fain and Norma Newcomb, of Daytona Beach, were already on the train.

Coribel Mason and Bootsie Candler were there to tell the girls goodbye. So were Bill Manry, Ted Will and others. Just before "All aboard!" was heard, the girls gathered on the observation car to sing their college song, "Every Stephens Girl" to the catchy tune of the Washington and Lee Swing.

Then the train pulled out. There were cheers. There was waving. It disappeared down the tracks. They were gone and on their way where textbooks replace date books.

All Aboard!

With the fading echo of that cry still ringing, trains have moved away to every section of the nation in the faithful service of the greatest transportation system in the world. What we are as a great nation, we owe in large part to our railroads.

Today the railroads are calling again—asking for our support and patronage—asking us to remember that they cannot exist without a volume of profitable business—asking us to remember that their continued existence is vital to our national future.

Today the future of the railroads rests in the hands of the American people. Whether they shall be permitted to fall into decay—whether they shall be given special consideration because of their relation to peacetime progress and the plan of national defense—these are questions for the nation to decide.

Lolotien Seized, Permitting Consolidation on Half-Moon Front Near Hankow.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 10.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Japanese forces were reported today to have pushed into Lolotien, 135 miles north of Hankow, linking Japanese lines beyond the fallen provisional capital into a single extensive half-moon front.

Chinese stragglers fled from Lolotien, Japanese advisers said, leaving 700 dead after two days of heavy fighting.

Japanese asserted the success of the Lolotien operation enabled forces operating north and northwest of Hankow, which fell October 26, to bridge the gap that had separated them.

LOYALISTS PREPARE COUNTER-ATTACK

Southern Drive Seriously Threatens Franco Communications From Seville.

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier)—Jan. 9.—(AP)—Spanish government forces tonight were reported to be massing for a large-scale counteroffensive against the Insurgents on the northernmost flank of the Catalan front.

The report followed announcement by the Insurgents that they had captured the road junction town of Mollerusa, bringing them to within 75 miles of Barcelona on a main highway from Lerida through the heart of Catalonia. Mollerusa is 15 miles east of Lerida.

Border dispatches said an almost continuous train of government troops, tanks and artillery was moving through Puigcerda toward the Seo de Urgel sector, about 20 miles south of the French frontier.

Sea de Urgel is 25 miles west by south of Puigcerda, and about 50 miles northeast of Lerida along a main highway.

The reports indicated the government considered its southern flank sufficiently entrenched in the Montserrat mountains, about 25 miles northwest of Tarragona, to permit a telling blow to be delivered in the north.

The expected attack in the Seo de Urgel sector is believed to be the result of a renewed confidence of the government resulting from the continuing success of its drive through Estremadura in southwest Spain.

This offensive was launched to drive a wedge between the southern and northern sections of Insurgent territory. The Insurgents bolstered their forces today with troops drawn hastily from La Lina, west of Gibraltar. The number of men moved was not disclosed.

The government armies were about 65 miles from the Portuguese frontier.

The government's center column, pushing toward captured Granja de Terrehormosa, was about 20 miles from Llerma on a rail line which links Seville, important Insurgent city in southern Spain, to Insurgent territory in the north.

The government was said to be bringing up heavy long-range guns in an effort to cut this main line of communications by artillery fire.

LEGISLATIVE AID TO HOSPITAL SPED BY RIVERS CHIEFS

Bills Enabling Georgia To Obtain Four Million for Milledgeville Work Placed First by Leaders.

Bills to enable Georgia to obtain $4,000,000 for the state hospital at Milledgeville, are scheduled to be "Nos. 1, 2 and 3," administration leaders revealed yesterday as the general assembly organized and prepared to settle down to work.

In the senate, Paul L. Lindsay, of Decatur, announced he will introduce the three bills today because the administration has "promised Washington" they will be the first order of business and it is of utmost importance that they be enacted by January 29.

Senator G. Everett Millican, of Atlanta, yesterday proposed his bill to abolish the state athletic commission as senate bill No. 1, and declared he will urge it be thus numbered today, because he "promised the people of Fulton county" to sponsor this bill.

However, administration leaders in the house of representatives plan to number their Milledgeville bills one, two and three, and efforts will be made to have the senate and house bills carry the same numbering as a matter of expediency.

Senate President Spivey put off until today decision as to which bill will get the sought-after numbering in the upper chamber.

The Milledgeville bills were drawn for both houses under the personal supervision of Attorney General M. J. Yeomans. They are designed to enable the state to take advantage of federal funds for the much-needed enlargement and improvement of the state hospital.

Warms of Patronage.

Spivey delivered senators a lecture on patronage after he took over the gavel for his second term as president.

He asserted the extra session of the legislature last year cost too much, had too many employees on the pay rolls. He begged the senators to "be easy" on him with requests for patronage and flatly stated he would consider no application unless indorsed by a senator.

"Patronage this year must be kept at its absolute minimum," he declared.

All senators and representatives were invited by the Fulton delegation to be dinner guests of the local legislators at 6 o'clock to-night at the Henry Grady hotel.

David T. Meyerhardt, newly appointed United States commissioner for the northern district of Georgia, held Brown for removal to the northern district of Indiana.

chairman of the house appropriations committee.

The vice chairman of the rules committees will steer administration in their respective branches. They, like the chairmen of the major committees, were appointed because of their support of the administration as well as their qualities of leadership.

Assignments Drawn.

Both houses adjourned until today after completing their organization yesterday. President Spivey and Speaker Harris set to work completing the formation of their committees. Spivey said he would not be ready to announce his line-up until later in the week but Harris said he hoped to have committee assignments completed today.

The session today will be a joint meeting at which the assembly will canvass returns from the general election and prepare for the second inauguration of Governor Rivers, scheduled for 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Following his inauguration the governor will swear in the constitutional officers for their new terms.

Speaker Harris announced the appointment of Representative Alexis A. Marshall, of Macon county, to be chairman of the temperance committee.

Representative H. B. Edwards, of Lowndes county, an administration stalwart who withdrew from the race for speaker position, in order to promote harmony, was named chairman of the powerful committee on the state of the republic. He was chairman of this committee during his last tenure in the house and handled a large portion of the major legislation during that session. A number of important bills are scheduled to go to the Edwards committee this session.

Welfare Chairman.

Previously Speaker Harris had announced the appointment of Representative Cleveland Rees, of Webster county, to the chairmanship of the house committee on public welfare. He succeeds Representative Helen Williams Coxen, of Long county, who retired from the assembly.

Senator Durden was a boyhood friend of President Spivey. Until a few days ago he was unopposed for president pro tem. of the senate, but retired when Governor Rivers and Spivey called on him to become floor leader. Upon Durden's retirement, administration leaders singled out Senator Smith and prevailed on him to become president pro tem. Smith is a well-known Columbus business executive. Durden, Herrell and Palmour are lawyers.

The senate chose Secretary Hammond for a new term on the second ballot. He defeated Herbert H. Wind, of Cairo, by a vote of 30 to 20. On the first ballot Hammond received 21 votes, Wind 15 votes and William Rawlins, former representative from Ben Hill county, 13 votes. Rawlins dropped out on the second ballot.

Bloodworth Loses.

Wiley Galloway, of Waverly Hall, was named messenger of the senate, defeating the incumbent, Homer Bloodworth, by a vote of 41 to 9. Perry Griffin, perennial doorman of the senate, was re-named by acclamation. The senate's only woman member, Senator Susie T. Moore, of Tifton, placed Galloway in nomination.

The change in the house clerkship was the only one in the lower branch. With Rivers leaders "going down the line" for him, Greer beat out Boone by 29 votes. Boone was named during the extra session early last year to serve out the unexpired term of Andrew J. Kingery.

Patrick J. Avery, of Atlanta and Rome, was re-elected messenger of the house over four opponents. On the first ballot Avery obtained 89 votes to 45 for H. S. Patton, of Tifton; 25 for High Stripling, of Franklin; 16 for J. E. DeFoor, of Jonesboro, and 15 for Jim Manning, of Decatur. On the second ballot the three lowest ranking candidates withdrew in favor of Patton but Avery picked up 18 votes on the second ballot and Youth of Georgia is well represented in the general assembly, which convened yesterday for the 1939 short session.

"Baby" of the upper chamber is 25-year-old Senator M. L. Dunn Jr., of Zebulon, representing the twenty-second senatorial district. Other young members are Senator Walter D. Sanders, 29, of Newnan; Senator Moses E. Brinson, 32, of Summerville; Senator Don B. Howe, 34, of Tallapoosa, and Senator Royston Ingram, 34, of Cumming. The latter three are newcomers to politics, but Dunn and Sanders are veterans of the house of representatives.

Three legislators share youngest honors in the house. They are Osborn L. Foster, 22, of Towns county; Max L. Looper, 23, of Dawson county, and O. J. Coogler Jr., 23, of Clayton county.

won out over the combined opposition, 107 to 85 for Patton.

Marin Toms, of Georgetown, was renamed house doorkeeper without opposition when Roy Salter, of Newton, declined to permit his name to be placed before the house.

Although Evans is considered an anti-administrationist, even the most partisan Rivers followers admitted that his race against Harris was not a test of administration strength. Many members known to be unfriendly with the Rivers administration joined administrationists in voting for Harris. By the same token some members, known to be favorable to the administration, vote against Greer.

Safe Majority.

Despite the cross-currents as reflected in the contests settled yesterday it was apparent that at the outset of his second term Governor Rivers has a safe majority in both houses of the assembly, but what will happen to the tax program remains to be seen.

In accepting re-election, both Spivey and Harris promised full co-operation with their entire membership. They pledged themselves to economic administration and said that they would co-operate with all groups.

Representative Evans took the floor to congratulate Speaker Harris and promised that there would be no lasting bitterness as a result of his defeat. Harris publicly thanked his foe for his display of harmony.

In withdrawing as a candidate for speaker pro tem, Representative Edwards made it clear that he will continue his efforts to eliminate useless state bureaus and unneeded by state jobs, but at the same time lined up squarely with the Rivers administration. In appointing Edwards chairman of the committee on the state of the republic, Harris made it clear that the administration is counting on the fiery Valdostan to be one of its strongest leaders during the session.

No bills were introduced yesterday although Senator G. Everett Millican sought to enter his bill abolishing the boxing commission. He said he wanted the bill No. 1 on the senate calendar as he had pledged his constituents that it would be the first bill to get his consideration.

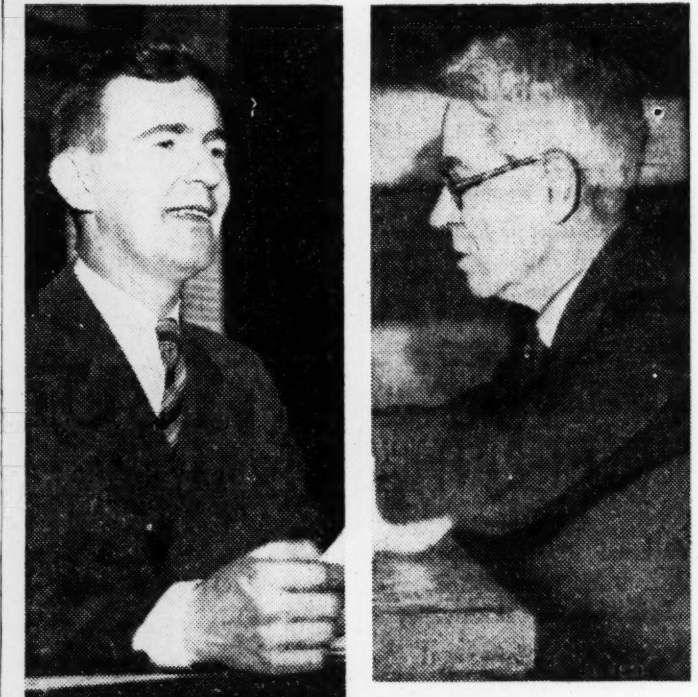

Senator Paul Lindsey, also of Atlanta, had ready three bills setting up the Milledgeville authority under which the state hopes to obtain a loan and grant totaling $4,000,000 to carry on its hospital expansion program.

All four bills are to be introduced today.

Under the constitution the assembly must continue its organization session 10 days before it can convene its 60-day session. During the 10-day period bills and resolutions cannot obtain a third reading or be passed. Consequently no bills can be adopted formally before next week.

After the inauguration tomorrow the members will devote themselves to organization of committees and the study of bills presented in order that they may give final consideration to measures before adjourning for the week end a week from Friday.

MOONEY DONATES FUNDS TO STRIKERS

Turns Over $10 Given Him at Prison.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—(AP) Tom Mooney, whose long fight for freedom organized labor financed, reciprocated today by donating to strikers in Chicago and San Francisco the $10 he received "as compensation for 22 years in prison."

Mooney appeared briefly in a five-and-ten cent store picket line and donated to striking clerks $5 of the $10 that is given to every convict when he leaves San Quentin prison. Mooney received the $10 when he was pardoned Saturday and absolved of guilt in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing which killed 10 persons.

The other $5 he gave to striking newspaper workers in Chicago.

DEVICE AIDS OUTPUT OF COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The Engineering Foundation of New York announced today that new automatically controlled processing equipment developed in the laboratories of the University of Tennessee, in co-operation with the Tennessee Valley Authority, had made possible an annual increase of 45,000,000 pounds in the south's production of cottonseed oil.

"Due to the better control conditions over cooking," said the foundation, "it has been possible to obtain at least 10 pounds more oil per ton of cottonseed." Some 4,500,000 tons of seed, it added, now are processed annually.

CLEARs STUFFY HEAD

Helps Prevent the Development of Colds, too

NOW, it's easy to relieve head cold discomfort. Just put a few drops of Vicks Vapo-r-nol up each nostril and feel the tingling as Vapo-r-nol's stimulating medication reduces the swollen membranes, clears away the clogging mucus, helps to keep the sinuses from being blocked by the cold—lets you breathe again.

NEXT TIME, don't wait until your head is all stuffed up. At the first warning sneeze or sniffle, use Vicks Vapo-r-nol at once—it helps to prevent many colds from developing. Vapo-r-nol is specialized medication—expressly designed for the nose and upper throat where most colds start. Used in time, it stimulates Nature's own defenses to fight off many a cold, or to throw off head colds in their early stages.

$8,300,000 SPENT BY HIGHWAY BOARD

Federal Government Contributed $3,752,000 for '38 Contracts, Miller Says.

State highway contracts totaling $8,300,000, of which the federal government furnished $3,752,000, were awarded during 1938, W. L. Miller, chairman of the State Highway Board, announced yesterday coincident with the release of the Highway Department's biennial report.

During the fiscal years ending June 30, 1937, and June 30, 1938, the board added 1,680 miles to the state road system, and awarded contracts on 100 bridges. Contracts during the two years for road construction totaled 1,556 miles. In addition, county forces were authorized to erect 64 bridges and do work on 665 miles of roadway.

From July 1, 1936, to June 30, 1937, total cost of federal aid projects was $7,032,928, and for the same period of time during 1937 and 1938, the total was $12,608,685.

Cost of state aid projects for the 1936-1937 fiscal year was $6,748,250, and for the fiscal year of 1937-1938, $3,215,091. State projects in county work totaled $2,645,937 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, increasing to $2,999,455 for the year ending June 30, 1938.

During the years covered in the report the rural post roads and the highway planning divisions were added to the State Highway setup.

Miller yesterday warned that Atlanta may lose the proposed federal aid project for the elimination of a grade crossing at North avenue and Marietta street, for which the government had set aside $485,000. The local governments have not been able to obtain rights-of-way, as required.

In the same category is the Broad street extension, which would receive government aid if rights of way were purchased by the city.

The highway chairman said 18 grade crossings were eliminated in 1938.

BURNED BODY BELIEVED THAT OF SALES EXPERT

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 9.—(AP)—The burned body of a man found in a burning automobile in Percy Warner park this morning was tentatively identified tonight as Frank E. Rives, about 40, of Memphis, Tenn.

Identification was made through descriptions of the body submitted to several acquaintances of Rives, district manager of Gilman Fanfold Corporation, business engineers.

Rives, friends said, was a nationally known expert on salesmanship and often spoke at sales conventions.

NEW CONTRACT COVERS 105,000 DRESS MAKERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Industrial peace for the next two years was promised today to 2,000 dress manufacturers with a total annual wholesale business of $500,000,000 by the ratification of new agreements with the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Affecting approximately 105,000 workers, the terms were virtually the same as old ones expiring February 1, said Harry Uviller, imperial chairman of the dress industry.

RECEIVERSHIP SUIT FOUGHT BY FIDELITY

Investment Association Confronts Federal Court Proceedings Unwarranted.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 9.—(AP)—The Fidelity Investment Association sought today in federal court the dismissal of receivership proceedings, contending the suit was unwarranted and the receivership petition filled with "generalities and conclusions."

Austin V. Wood, chief defense counsel, told Federal Judge Baker those seeking a receivership held only 16 per cent of the company's 100,000 contracts. He estimated the value of these contracts at $8,000 and the total value of all company certificates in excess of $34,000,000.

"The value of not one of these (16) contracts," he added, "warrants the filing of this highly major litigation and even the sum total of all the contracts is not sufficient to warrant this expense."

A group of Pennsylvania purchasers of investment loan contracts issued by the nation-wide firm asked the receivership December 20. They charged the company "recklessly, carelessly and wrongfully" managed its accounts.

FATAL FIRE PROBED BY CITY OFFICIALS

Bobo Hotel Blaze Brought Death to Brother of Department Captain.

Investigation was in progress yesterday into the fire which early Sunday damaged the Bobo hotel at Luckie and Bartow streets and resulted in the death of one man.

Fire Chief O. J. Parker said R. C. Endicott, head of the department's investigating branch, and M. H. Carter, head of the fire prevention bureau, had been assigned.

Rumors that a carelessly handled cigarette started the blaze led Chief Parker to stress further the "importance of not smoking in bed."

"This is one of the most dangerous practices in the world," he said, "and I can not urge too strongly that smokers stop it. At all times, care should be used while smoking."

The victim of the fire was Lyman C. Davis, a brother of Fire Captain L. A. Davis. He was fatally injured when he jumped from a third floor window.

Several other guests in the 14-room establishment, operated by J. P. Bobo, escaped with minor injuries by crawling to the roof of an adjoining building.

The fire was discovered by Charlie Springer, night clerk in the Luckie hotel, operated by Leroy Muse, on the opposite corner. Springer saw the flames and telephoned an alarm which brought six fire companies and more than a dozen ambulances.

TUSKEGEE TRAINING OF PILOTS IS URGED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Representative Mitchell, Democrat, Illinois, only negro congressman, asked Secretary Woodring today to choose Tuskegee Institute, negro college at Tuskegee, Ala., as one of the schools for training pilots and aircraft mechanics.

President Roosevelt has recommended that 20,000 be trained. Mitchell said that on a population basis one-tenth of them should be negroes.

He said Woodring promised consideration of his proposal. Mitchell also discussed the proposal with Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, of the house naval affairs committee and Chairman May, Democrat, Kentucky, of the military affairs committee.

CLAY THANKS PARTY FOR FUND RESPONSE

Jackson Dinner Ticket Sales Exceeded Fondlest Hopes, He Declares.

Ryburn G. Clay, state chairman of the Jackson Day celebration committee, yesterday thanked all who assisted his committee in the campaign that culminated in the highly successful Jackson Day dinner Saturday night at the Henry Grady hotel.

Clay said the ticket sales, approximating 600 at $25 each, exceeded his fondest hopes, and he was greatly pleased with the manner in which Georgia Democrats turned out at the party's call.

A final check-up of names of contributors to the party was made yesterday, and the complete list of ticket purchasers will be printed in a new edition of the souvenir program for distribution.

Only 525 copies of the program were available Saturday night, and the hotel fed 577 persons at the dinner, the number of dinner guests exceeding even the wildest preliminary estimates.

In a statement commenting on success of the drive, Clay gave much of the credit to his vice chairman, W. V. Crowley, vice president of the Fulton National Bank of Atlanta, of which Clay is president, and to J. P. Allen, Fulton county chairman. Crowley managed the dinner campaign, devoting his entire time for several weeks to Jackson Day headquarters.

ATLANTAN DIRECTS PAY-HOUR REGIONS

Earle W. Dahlberg Appointed Acting Chief of Field Operations.

Earle W. Dahlberg, of Atlanta, has been appointed acting chief of field operations of the wage and hour division in Washington, Major A. L. Fletcher, assistant administrator in charge of co-operation and enforcement, announced yesterday.

The new appointee assumed his duties yesterday. He will supervise activities of field representatives and regional offices of the division, serving directly under Elmer F. Andrews, director-in-chief of wage-hour enforcement.

At the same time Cecil Wilson, of North Carolina, left Washington for Orlando, Fla., where he will establish headquarters as local director of wage-hour field operations in the southeast.

Dahlberg joined the wage-hour bureau as director of region 7, including most of the south, immediately after wage-hour legislation was enacted last summer. He previously held an executive post with the Bituminous Coal Commission and before that was deputy administrator of the NRA.

While he expects to spend much of his time in the field, Dahlberg said he intends to maintain his general headquarters in Washington.

Wilson is a graduate of Duke University. He was in the insurance business for a number of years. Before joining the wage-hour bureau he was connected with the social security board in Washington.

'Traffic Lights in Bridge' Lesson Is Set for Tomorrow at School

Three Classes Will Be Held in Constitution Series, Dealing With Complete Range of Suit and No Trump Responses; Sweepstakes To Continue.

"Traffic Lights in Bridge," regarded as one of the outstanding lessons in The Constitution's 1939 course of instruction in contract bidding and play, has been announced as the topic for tomorrow's three classes in the Atlanta Woman's Club. The subject deals with the complete range of suit and no-trump responses and will be presented at sessions starting at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Included in tomorrow's lesson will be simplified outlines for non-fencing, one-round forcing and game-forcing raises, suit jumps and no-trump skip bids. New 1939 refinements for two no-trump takeouts and suit jumps made at the three level will be fully explained by Harold Sharpsteen, The Constitution's nationally known Culbertson system authority.

Three Presentations.
The same lesson will be presented morning, afternoon and night for the convenience of all Constitution readers and their friends interested in learning the new improvements for third-hand responses.

Immediately following the lesson period, players will resume play in The Constitution rubber bridge sweepstakes events which are creating unusual interest among members of the school this year. Prizes will be awarded high-scoring players in the morning, afternoon and night sections. More than 200 players are already entered in these competitive contests which wind up each day's sessions.

Capacity Crowds.
Capacity crowds regularly attending this year's Constitution series, including beginners and experienced players, are finding Mr. Sharpsteen's clear and convincing explanations easy for all to follow. Possessing a priceless gift of being natural at all times, Mr. Sharp-steen's lessons at The Constitution school are carried on with an ease and friendliness which, coupled with his pre-eminent soundness, is winning a great following among bridge enthusiasts of Atlanta and vicinity.

The Constitution bridge school courtesy coupon appearing in this edition entitles the holder for admission to any class tomorrow for 35 cents. The regular admission, without the coupon, is $1.

If you have not yet had the opportunity to attend one of The Constitution's classes, make plans now to be on hand for one of tomorrow's three sessions. New players may enroll at any class.

ART TO BE EXHIBITED. LAGRANGE, Ga., Jan. 9.—The Georgia art exhibit, recently on display at the High Art Museum in Atlanta, will be shown here January 27-31 under the auspices of the fine arts section of the Woman's Club. The collection is composed of works of 40 Georgia artists.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 10, 1939.

THE ASSEMBLY CONVENES

It is customary, at the opening of each session of the Georgia legislature, to welcome the lawmakers to the capital city with more or less fanfare of public acclaim and written eulogy.

This year, with deliberate intent, comment here on the 1939 assembly was deferred for one day, until after they had gathered, accomplished the regular elections for the various offices and posts of honor in their organization. Until after there had been opportunity to stand in ante rooms of senate and of house, looking on, and to appraise, to some degree, the caliber of the men, and women, entrusted with the making of Georgia's governmental program for the next two years.

After making such a quiet survey it is possible to say, in all truth, that the voters of the state have done a wise and intelligent job, on the whole, in their selection of representatives and senators for this session. It is impossible to watch those men, and women, without realization that they are, almost entirely, imbued with the spirit of service to their state, filled with the ambition to do their full part in leading Georgia at least one step along the road to the goal of social content, economic prosperity and universal justice which all true citizens envision.

The 1939 assembly is faced with tasks that are far from easy. With the state launched upon an ambitious program of enlarged service to its people, it devolves upon this legislature to provide the financial means for the carrying out of those plans. Which means, in blunt admission, more taxes. No legislature which increases the burden of taxation of its constituents can expect to be popular with some segments of society. Yet the finances must be raised, or the complete edifice of the plan for human services in Georgia must topple to the ground and be abandoned.

That is unthinkable. Georgians of today are committed by their own hearts, their own realization of responsibility and their own determination, to better educational facilities, to improved care of the unfortunate who become wards of the state, to a greater security, in health, in sickness, in youth, in old age, for all her people.

And no one with rudimentary intelligence imagines, for a moment, that these ends can be achieved without money.

It is true of all loyal citizens of the state who have the courage to look facts in the face and who are not actuated by selfish greed, that they are primarily interested in the manner in which their tax moneys are used. In regard to the raising of these tax moneys they ask only that it be on a basis of fairness to all, with injustice to none. That the burden be equally distributed, each man according to his ability to pay, and no individual or group penalized for the benefit of others.

If means are devised for such an honest and fair division of the tax burden, among all Georgians, the legislature will meet with but little honest criticism. The only question then remaining will be to provide such safeguards and assurances that the taxpayers of the state will know they are to receive full value in service for every dollar expended.

It is not so much the number of tax dollars that is the concern of Georgians of 1939. It is, rather, that every such dollar bring 100 cents of service for the state and its people.

The 1939 general assembly faces not one, but many, difficult tasks. At the end of the first day of their gathering, after watching them convene and seeking the clues of character and ability that are to be read in every face, it may confidently be stated that the people of Georgia may repose high faith in this group of their representatives.

A Californian who thrust his hand into a lion's mouth lost the hand. The Duke and other tormentors of Britain will be interested to know how these things can turn out.

The plan now is to run our military flying strength to an even 10,000 planes. As to the Ickes vocabulary, it seems invincible as it stands.

Though they affect a sterner tone, the democracies should do nothing to inflame the Fuehrer. A Hitler beside himself would be two Hitlers—a dreadful thought.

American naturalists in Dutch New Guinea, who have found rats three feet long and kangaroos that climb trees, are understood to have several gallons left.

WALLS BETWEEN THE STATES

From the economic angle the United States have become less and less united. Ever mounting "tariff walls" have gradually nullified the constitutional guarantee of "free trade" between them, which signified economic unity. As one state sought to utilize its sovereign power to "protect" local enterprise, other states regarded such actions as an invitation to retaliate. Most of them promptly accepted the bid. Thus the economic walls have grown higher and wider.

Theoretically there are, of course, no "tariffs" in effect between the states. Many of the measures, however, were intended to be and are equally effective in restricting interstate competition. Ports of entry, such as exist in European countries, have been set up. They are designed to hamper the free movement of interstate trade.

Many states have enacted laws giving preference to local enterprise in the purchase of commodities, particularly building materials, by state governments. There are laws restricting employment to residents of the state. Only domestic butter, in one state, may be used in state institutions. Another gives preference to textbooks, in its schools, to authors who are residents of that state. These are only examples. There are hundreds of similar "bricks" in the wall against free trade.

One of the favorite methods employed in shutting out unwanted competition is constructing health and inspection laws as if they were embargoes to be enforced at any time local producers felt the need of such aid. This system has been applied most effectively in preventing competitive fruits, vegetables and milk from entering a state.

Midwestern dairy states, probably the first to tax competition out of business with their unjustified oleomargarine levies, have had their own weapon turned against them with killing effect. Fast express trains can now transport fluid milk to eastern markets quicker than local milk could be delivered at one time. But the inspection laws and other regulations have been construed against outside milk. Thus midwestern producers have been shot with their own gun. The eastern states, in turn, have had their insurance companies and corporations hampered by discriminatory taxes in other states.

There is little to recommend these sly manipulations of health, inspection and taxing privileges into what actually amounts to an outright restraint of free commercial intercourse. These economic walls between the states, if allowed to get out of control, if permitted to grow beyond the bounds of reason, will have devastating effect on the nation's business. They will, in all probability, necessitate the eventual drawing up of reciprocal trade agreements, as if the country were composed of 48 separate entities, instead of an economic whole.

RELIGION AND DEMOCRACY

In his message to congress President Roosevelt listed religion, democracy and international good faith as three institutions indispensable to Americans. Those three, to the average American, seem so fundamentally necessary as conditions for life that some of the significance of the presidential listing may have been widely overlooked.

That religion and democracy are, as a matter of fact, interdependent, is a truth that requires merely a little thought to demonstrate. It is impossible to conceive of a people capable of understanding the basic principles of democracy who do not, at the same time, accept the tenets of religion. An irreligious people cannot know anything of true democracy, they are always ripe for the iron hand of the dictator, fit subjects of a rule that regards the individual as a soulless clod, a slave in the system of the state.

Democracy accepts man as a being with a soul, an individual entity worthy of all dignity, a creature possessing reason and self-dependence, a free man in his own right. Democracy is based upon the rule of the people, hence it is founded upon the souls of men.

Without such a conception of mankind, democracy must prove an abortive seizing after idealism, doomed to failure and waiting for the destroyer.

On the other hand, the totalitarian states ignore all indications of the divine in humanity and classify men but as numbered units of the state, devoid of independent reasoning power, doomed forever, while life lasts, to work only for the state which has come to be, to them, God.

Once again it must be realized that religion and democracy are twin forces for man's advancement. Both are rooted in the firm faith that man is a creature with a soul, an entity but a little lower than the angels, gifted with eternal life and foreordained, someday, to sit on the right hand of God, both in heaven and a remade earth.

Editorial of the Day

THE WIDTH IS THE PROBLEM
(From The Detroit News.)

We have followed the practice of referring to the agitation for eliminating trivial parties from the ballot as a move for "shorter ballots." This is, of course, a misnomer. The multiplicity of parties extends the lunch-cloth ballot in a lateral or sideways direction. The effort to discourage trivial parties therefore should be known as a move for "narrower ballots."

We shall so refer to it in the future. This distinction is not itself trivial in any sense. The term "short ballot," though used by election officials in the current connection, means in reality something quite different and also more important. It describes the movement to reduce the number of candidates on party tickets.

The multiplicity of candidates on a ballot enlarges it in an up-and-down, not a sideways, direction. It contributes not merely to the physical unwieldiness of this instrument of democracy. It also adds to the voter's burden by confronting him with a confusing array of candidates for unimportant offices whose qualifications he is utterly unable to judge.

Moreover, the short ballot problem is the harder to remedy. Useless offices must be abolished and others made appointive rather than elective. That arouses an opposition which trivial spirits in the nature of the case cannot begin to arouse.

It would be a sad mistake to let ourselves imagine that in dealing with the problem of the narrower ballot we shall have solved that of the short ballot. We shan't.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

NORRIS REMONSTRATED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—There's a dramatic appropriateness in Felix Frankfurter's appointment to the supreme court of the United States. He will sit with Louis Brandeis, whose cherished friend he is. He will occupy the judicial chair of the great Oliver Wendell Holmes, who thought him his best disciple. And he inherits Holmes' place from the saintly Benjamin Nathan Cardozo, who also held him in affection and would have chosen him for a successor.

In the manner of his nomination, moreover, there is a strange parallel with Cardozo's. When Holmes resigned, as your correspondents once recalled, President Hoover believed that Cardozo was ruled out by sectional considerations. He changed his mind when Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, came to him to remonstrate. "Mr. President," said Borah, "it doesn't matter what state Judge Cardozo comes from. He is Idaho's candidate, and I venture to say he is the candidate of the entire United States."

Just so, last week, sectional considerations had persuaded the President that Felix Frankfurter would not do. Before the week end, he held at least two high officials of the government, in such plain language they thought they could not be mistaken, that Felix Frankfurter was out. Then Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, like Borah an elder statesman of American liberalism, went to the President and remonstrated. Norris is the man in American public life whom the President most respects. No doubt his word was the decisive one. It was seconded by the new attorney general, Frank Murphy, and, it is said on good authority, by Justice Hugo L. Black. And so the President changed his mind.

Thus, a fitting climax will be given to the most American of stories—the story of the weary foreigner who finds a new land and learns to love it. When Felix Frankfurter came to this country from Vienna, he was the poor son of poor parents, speaking no English, looking forward to no great future. But, somehow, he dreamed the good dream of the immigrants. He did not search for streets paved with gold. He looked for a nation where human dignity, and human decency, and human freedom were respected. That is why the late Newton D. Baker once remarked, "To him America has been in a high sense an opportunity and an inspiration."

The facts of his career—the struggle for an education, the service as one of the first Roosevelt's trust-busters, the professorship at Harvard Law School—have no place here. But something of his quality may be seen in a story from the first days of the Wilson administration. Then he was one of a group of young liberals in Washington, deeply stirred by the public service, anxious that it should be good. His future colleague on the bench, James C. McReynolds, had just been named attorney general, and was busy dismantling the nonpolitical Justice Department of George W. Wickes.

Frankfurter and his friends protested to him. "What you say is all very well," replied McReynolds, "but I'm afraid you young men know nothing of public life. You don't see the 96 United States senators, all clamoring for patronage in my outer office."

"May I suggest, Mr. Attorney General," said Frankfurter, "that you allow the 96 United States senators to block your vision of the 96,000,000 citizens of the United States?"

THE GOOD CONSERVATISM Although the 96,000,000 have had time to grow to 130,000,000 the spirit of his reply to McReynolds has continuously inspired Frankfurter. It is, indeed, responsible for his present appointment. The public service took him back to Washington in the war years, when he struck up a friendship with the amiable young assistant secretary of the navy, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. And his passion for the public service led him to establish a sort of job exchange at the Harvard Law School, whence he sent out able young men to any available government position. Justices Holmes and Brandeis and half a dozen lesser judges got their secretaries from him. Henry L. Stimson, Eugene Meyer and many other leading figures of the Republican years called on him for well-equipped subordinates. When the President took office, he also used the job exchange.

Score of Frankfurter's young men entered the New Deal. Many of them have risen to places of great influence. They were the first to press his claims when Cardozo's place fell vacant. Frankfurter had also been a leading White House counselor, and the President listened receptively. As politics go, his appointment must be regarded as a victory for the New Dealers, over the orthodox Democrats who made the sectional argument.

But politics do not go very far. Frankfurter's appointment had been warmly advocated by the most outstanding conservatives as well as the most ardent New Dealers. And there can be no doubt that Frankfurter himself is a conservative, in the good sense that he has dedicated himself to conserving all that is best in the country he loves.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

The man who behaves
For hope of reward
Is really not good at all;
Virtue is never Virtue, when fear
Only prevents the fall.

Aggravating,
No End.

Let us see, that city ordinance limiting traffic speed within the limits of Atlanta to 25 m. p. h. is still in force, isn't it?

Having had the family bus in the shop for a week—you know how that is—it proved illuminating to once again drive in by Ponce de Leon and Courtland street.

Being one of those souls who at least tries to observe every law which has been brought to our attention, we have meticulously observed the new speed limit ever since it was enacted. Well, almost always. Sometimes the speedometer has slipped up to 30, when generally speaking, we have almost invariably kept by keeping the eyes glued to that speedometer when, perhaps, they should have been used in other directions, for safety's sake.

By now we have become more or less an expert judge of 25 m. p.
h. and can automatically lunge
along at that rate.

But we have noticed, in traversing the aforesaid Ponce de Leon and Courtland, that at least half the other cars, traveling in the same direction, come around behind us and dart past. Now, inasmuch as we travel at the legal rate, 25 m.p.h., or a shade over, it follows that these passing fellows must be doing 35 or 40.

It makes us feel like an old stick-in-the-road, an impediment to progress and other undesirable things.

It is most aggravating, anyway.
Why isn't the law enforced, im-partially? Or is it safe to ignore it, by now?

We just ask to know. Because, if we let a law abiding citizen necessity, we feel like a sap. And inclined to step down hard, and say, as we rush past the old slow in front, "hell with it!"

One Big Improvement.

Since those dear, dead days when was part of the job to write to the governor, the legislature, they've made many improvements at the state capital.
Valuable improvements and highly commendable.

Paying a visit yesterday, when the assembly convened, there were one or two changes that hit us between the eyes with probably much more impressiveness than their importance warrants. For, after all, they are only surface incidental. But noticeable, very.

There's that matter of refreshment for the weary solons and their visiting friends—and enemies.

Not so many years ago most of the quick lunches and soft drinks used to come out of a basket, or a bottle container, toted around by more or less—mostly less—sanitary peddlers of the nickel packages of nutrition and the similarly priced bottles of the pause that refreshes.

Nowadays there is a quite swanky lunch counter, presided over with the legendary aplomb and dispatch and superciliousness of the born soda jerkier.

And there is one of those ultra smart automatic dispensers of the soft drink, all new and shiny and modern in its red lacquer finish.

Another innovation, to an old timer, is the lovely lady who sits in the center of the rotunda, surrounded by a shiny brass rail, with plywood and glass partition protecting her on three sides and with a truly gorgeous shoulder bouquet of orchids or something giving the proper touch to her up-do hairdress.

An up-to-the-minute "information, please," I imagine.

Nice, smart, and hotcha, no doubt.

But, say, Bill, do you remember how we used to have to enquire of the elevator man, half a dozen negro porters and finally have to call on some friend in officialdom to find the way to that little bureau, that thought itself so important and valuable to the state?

Times, even at the capitol, do change. The old makes way for the new and modern brings improvements galore. But it's hard for a bashful man, too overawed by flip soda jerkers, shoulder orchids and hair up-does, to dare approach such resplendent individuals.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Saturday, January 10, 1914:

"Washington, January 9.—(Special.)—The department of justice has dispatched a special examiner to Atlanta to look into conditions at the Federal prison."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Thursday, January 10, 1869:

"Miss Lillie Fitzgerald, the belle of Opelika, is visiting the Misses Stephens, on Jackson street."

Pays to Straddle.

G. N. Morgan's general store at Latex, Texas, straddles on the Louisiana-Texas line and he cashes in on his location.

He sells everything but liquor on the Texas side; his customers thereby avoid paying the Louisiana sales tax. It is unlawful to sell liquor in Harrison county, Texas.
So Morgan dispenses that commodity on the Louisiana side of his store.

Too Many Honorables.

Gerarchia, monthly magazine of the Fascist party, published in Rome, has proposed that the title of "honorable" be used less in connection with the names of minor public figures, but a hold-over of the former democratic regimes.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Tired Man

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—President Roosevelt's discussion of our relations with the blackguard and hoodlum nations of the world and the necessity to arm against them reminded me of the effort of a tired man on an off day. Mr. Roosevelt had a good piece in mind but when he sat down to his typewriter it flopped away from him. His presentation was untidy, but it should be remembered that an American president in repatriate with the bloody-handed killers who rule the lunatic countries accepts the same handicap that would hamper a gym-taught boxer in a battle royal against a gang of adversa-rily armed with cleavers, chains and steeled-off pool cues and jagged highball glasses. They fight to kill.

He must spar for points. When an American president speaks to congress, he must stay within the somewhat stretchable limits of public opinion in his own country and defer to the social, temperamental and political prejudices of his fellow citizens. He must conform to rules which are not binding on his foes and permit the American public to assume, if it will, that his opponents are acquainted with and fight according to the restrictions of diplomatic decency.

From abroad and from his own people, President Roosevelt has heard himself accused of rattling the sword. It makes little difference whether the killer leaders say but it should be cited for Americans that his remarks were mild by comparison with the savage orations, the public incitations to slaughter which have been heard from Germany and Italy, for years.

Don't Know—The American objection to President Roosevelt's warning asserts that the bravos of European nations are no affair of ours and that this country has been happily exempted from the malvolent plans of the dictators.

But those who believe that Hitler and Mussolini have let us alone don't know or forget that German and Italian conspiracies are maintained in American communities to incite contempt for the American nation and its form of government, that Germany and Italy have attempted to interfere in American elections through blood-conspiracies and that no nation, including this one, may ever know whether it is at war or on terms of peace with Germany or Italy.

Italy has not yet declared war against Abyssinia but the propaganda against Abyssinia is independent was no more vicious than Mussolini's continued campaign against the United States.
But Abyssinia has vanished.

Nazi Germany has not yet declared war against either Austria or Czechoslovakia but the German propaganda which destroyed those countries was directed from the same source and followed the same treacherous method as that

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"THE GENTLEMAN FROM—"

Just as in England I liked best to sit in the house of commons rather than see and hear the proceedings in the house of lords, so in Georgia do I like to sit and watch the house. The senate is all right. But give me those 204 gentlemen and one lady who compose the membership of the house.

The house is where the action is to be found. The house is the place where the fights are made; where the ebb and flow of political tides may be felt as if one bathed in them.

Give me the brawling, noisy house with the sound of the speaker's gavel seeking order; with the visitors in the gallery, with the semblance of chaos; with the new members sticking diligently to their seats, having yet to learn how to go out and have a talk in the corridor and duck back in for the votes.

Give me the house—205 faces with their stories; 205 faces which themselves speak eloquently of their owners; 205 personalities; 205 minds; 205 opinions; 205 human natures.

There again we have the example of democracy and inefficiency.

Each member is able to stand up and say what he or she thinks and believes. Each member may express an opinion. Each member may oppose or support a bill as each chooses. There is no one man to tell them to vote as he will; no dictator to say how they shall act and think and speak.

That is the greatness of democracy—that here the voice of the people may be heard—it is inefficient in that it requires time and that delay is inevitable in the passage of any act. It is great in that it is the democratic manner.

I like the house. . . .

INVISIBLE HANDS, LIPS

Invisible hands clutch at their laps. Invisible lips whisper in the ears of the members of the legislature as they sit at their desks.

Each day the mail brings letters from organizations, each with an ax to grind. Each one seeks to avoid this tax; to have another removed; to have someone else taxed, not them.

The legislator has to remember that he sits there representing those who write and the greater group, the inarticulate group, which is not organized to influence legislation.

The unwise legislator too often is influenced by those letters with high-sounding letterheads; with skilled arguments; with adroit proposals.

The veteran, hearing the sound of axes being ground, makes up his own mind. He knows that most of those who voted for him are inarticulate and expect him to represent them, and not the organized propagandists.

ONE SAID YESTERDAY Yesterday I sat for a while talking to one member of the house. He is a high-grade young man of character and intelligence.

"I had several letters on my arrival yesterday," he said. "I took the trouble to go call on two of the heads of organizations who had written me urging against any increases in taxes."

"I asked them if they wished to abolish the seven months' school term. They squirmed a bit, but at last said they did not. I then asked them if they wished to abolish the health appropriation. Again they squirmed and said they didn't want that done. And so, I went on down the list of Georgia's program which this legislature passed two years ago and which the people again have endorsed. They did not want the program abolished."

"But," he said grimly, "they did not want it paid for if it meant an increase in taxes."

PROTEST IS MADE BY DUCE TO PARIS IN TUNIS TENSION

Italian Flag Torn Down and Burned, Fascists Declare; Chamberlain Visit to Rome Awaited.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—(P)—French-Italian tension—marked today by Italy's protest against an anti-Fascist demonstration in Tunisia—provided new ammunition for an attack on the policy of Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet.

Government opponents charged this policy made possible Italian demands for a share in France's Mediterranean and African empire.

Some reports in political circles were that if the attacks on Bonnet should become too pressing in parliament, opening tomorrow, Premier Edouard Daladier might sacrifice the foreign minister to preserve the cabinet. Daladier himself undoubtedly is strong.

As a whole, the cabinet has the confidence of the country, but Bonnet, who has become a symbol of the so-called "Munich foreign policy of concessions," is regarded by some as a weak link.

The foreign ministry announced today that Italy protested formally to France that during an anti-Fascist demonstration during Premier Daladier's trip last week to Tunisia an Italian flag was torn down and burned.

Coming on the eve of the new session of parliament and of British Prime Minister Chamberlain's arrival en route to Rome, the protest added fresh fuel to the French-Italian dispute.

Daladier conferred immediately with Bonnet on the protest and on its probable effect on their brief talk tomorrow with Chamberlain and the British foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, who will stop here for two hours.

Both the French and the British insist there is no question of Chamberlain's acting as mediator in the dispute between France and Italy.

French and English interests in the Mediterranean, however, are so interrelated that it is considered impossible the British foreign minister could settle his country's own problems with Mussolini without having a clear idea of a means for a settlement between Paris and Rome.

ITALIANS INSIST ON BRITISH AID

ROME, Jan. 9.—(P)—Italians indicated today that Premier Mussolini would tell British Prime Minister Chamberlain in their talks beginning here Wednesday what Italy wants from France.

This would be done in the hope that Chamberlain would help Italy achieve her ambitions in eventual negotiations.

If Chamberlain learns Italian demands and intentions, he will be expected to "clear the way of obstacles," as the newspaper La Tribuna expressed it, by putting in a good word with France.

"And if such work is not mediation," Tribuna added, "another name will have to be found to describe it better." This was an obvious reference to assertions of both the British and French that Britain would not mediate the French-Italian dispute.

Hilyer for 1938, records indicating only 477 cases booked for the past year, compared with 568 in 1937. During 1938, lunacy cases also showed a decline, totaling 24, compared with 28 for the preceding year.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

MOLDING THE PATTERN.

Dr. O. P. Gilbert, editor of The Christian Index, carried a front page editorial in last week's issue of that splendid religious journal under the title, "Molding the Pattern of Life," from which I quote this paragraph: "Man's life is an empty thing without idealism. When religion and idealism go hand in hand, man builds a rampart against despair. When inevitable disappointments threaten to engulf him, he is fortified against the treacherous forces of doubt and disbelief."

saying that "reading maketh a full man." And I would like to add that no home can be quite well supplied with reading that does not have at least one religious journal on its table.

We are blessed to have a number of such papers in Georgia. In addition to the Christian Index, which I believe is the oldest Baptist paper in the south, we have the Wesleyan Christian Advocate, published in Macon by the Methodists of Georgia. The Bulletin, published at Augusta by the Catholics of Georgia, the Southern Israelite, published in Atlanta by the Jews, the War Cry, published in Atlanta by the Salvation Army, the Georgia Baptist, published in Atlanta by the Negro Baptists of Georgia, the Pilgrim's Messenger, published at Glennville, and perhaps others. And then we have many excellent religious journals published in the south and throughout the nation with wide circulation in Georgia. The Christian Herald and the Christian Century are two of the better known national religious journals.

These all have a very decided influence in molding the pattern of life. One could wish that they might have a much larger circulation. With the great dailies, the indispensable weekly newspapers, the news magazines and the literary magazines, we are increasingly enriched with interesting and vital reports of what is going on in every area of life, at home and abroad. But I come back to say that no reading table is complete that does not have due regard for religious journals. Thanks to Editor Gilbert for his happy phrasing of the function of the religious journal as it seeks to effectively blend religion and idealism in molding the pattern of life.

All in the GAME

by Jack Troy

The great dog whose picture accompanies this piece for the paper looks anything but embraced in the arms of sleep.

But his name, nevertheless, is Morpheus.

Outstanding dog families, like many leading horse families, have ambiguous names.

Morpheus, for instance, was winner of the Quail Futurity in 1937. And the Quail Futurity is, in some measure, similar to the Kentucky Derby in the horse world. Each year it brings out the best of the two-year-olds, or Derby dogs.

MORPHEUS.

Morpheus is now in his first all-age year and will run at Waynesboro next week in the famous trials of the Georgia Field Trial Club. And if any of the rivals of this Sage dog are deceived by the name they are apt to be left asleep at the switch.

Lullaby is the mama of Morpheus. There were only three of her puppies but they were great ones—Morpheus, Rockabye Baby and Sandman.

Rockabye Baby won the Derby championship in 1938 and Sandman was a winner in the Georgia Derby of 1938.

This remarkable litter was sired by Joe Willing and was bred, owned and campaigned by A. G. C. Sage, of Alberta, Ala.

Dog owners have a great respect for the Sage dogs and the progress of Morpheus in the Waynesboro trials will be watched with great interest.

Mr. Sage had much success at the Georgia trials last year, winning the all-age stake with Chiquita and also the Derby with Timberline.

Chiquita will run again at Waynesboro and another great dog, Luminary, also by the same dam, Lullaby, but sired by Dr. Blue Willing, will be entered in the competition.

It is naturally a very rare occurrence for a dog owner to have winners from the same dam and each by different sires two years in succession.

Luminary won the Quail Futurity in 1938, succeeding Morpheus, and only recently won the Derby championship for the All-American trials at Brownsville, Tenn.

The setter people will find all the competition they can handle in Mr. Sage's pointer products.

VACATION TIME NEARS.

Vacation time is nearing for Dr. George Myshrell, the big drill and pincers man.

Every year when the dogs start running the blood of Dr. Myshrell begins stirring. It's something like spring when the sap rises in the trees.

(Editor's Note: There is no connection between the first sentence and the last one in the above paragraph. Dr. Myshrell is no Tarzan, although to hear him direct his dogs from a horse you might think he had acquired some of the latter's vocal qualities.)

Dr. Myshrell is a true dog man. He is so much of a dog man, in fact, that he reserves his vacation periods for the field trials in Georgia.

Doc sounded a bit nervous yesterday. His pride and joy is running at Pinehurst. Jasper's Holga, a first-rate setter, is carrying the Myshrell colors in the current trial, and Doc anxiously is awaiting the results. He is figuring on entering the setter in the member stake at Waynesboro.

It surprised me to learn yesterday how brave Murdock Equen really is. It seemed, on a 3,000-mile plane ride, that he had some of the qualities of the Spartan, but that was nothing as compared with what happened yesterday. He filled an appointment with Dr. Myshrell.

If Jasper's Holga does all right at Pinehurst, Doc will be off Sunday for Waynesboro with an entry. Otherwise, he'll be off—as a spectator.

Later on, at the Albany trials, the puppy class will have two fine Myshrell entries—Baron and Duchess. Doc is a bit partial to the puppy class.

All real dog men are partial to this class. The little fellows, who are untrained but work instinctively, offer one of the cuter spectacles in sports. They seem to know the rudiments of pointing at birth. As soon as they are able to walk, they paddle around pointing chickens, chickadees and anything else that wears feathers.

A CONTRACT BOUNCES BACK.

Big Fred Singleton, who has been working out in a health club for the past three weeks, apparently does not intend to play baseball for his health, however.

Singleton, for one of the few times in his life, has returned a baseball contract unsigned.

BOARD STATES ATHLETIC LAWS NEED AMENDING

State Athletic Group Seeks Revision or Abolishment.

The State Athletic Commission, in a report to Governor Rivers, yesterday informed the chief executive that in its belief the law creating the commission should be amended to make it really adequate or the board should be abolished.

The commission pointed out that while it had performed some service to sport it was not empowered with adequate legislation. Senator G. Everett Millican, of Atlanta, has prepared a bill calling for abolition of the commission. A copy of the report to Governor Rivers was sent to Senator Millican.

The commission report was signed by Chairman Ralph McGill, of Atlanta.

In discussing his bill yesterday, Senator Millican said he planned to praise the conduct of Chairman McGill but added that he saw no real need for the commission.

"What has happened came through no fault of McGill," Senator Millican said. "The law as it is certainly is inadequate and there is no need for it anyhow."

The commission's report to the Governor follows:

The Hon. E. D. Rivers, Governor of Georgia, Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Governor:

The members of the State Athletic Commission wish to present to you a report and a recommendation.

The commission believes the state should have and maintain control and regulation of professional sports as is done in more than 32 states in the nation. The Georgia State Commission has been at best a "watchdog" and the provisions of what the commission feels is an inadequate bill. The bill under which the commission was created does not give control to the state commission and did not contain provisions of wide enough scope.

During the past two years the commission has sought to place the professional sports over which it was given control on a sound basis. Physical examinations were required and these discovered several cases of venereal disease, including syphilis, among the wrestlers and boxers who before the creation of the state commission had been unexamined. They were the same men who before the requirements of physical examinations had been competing with uninfected competitors.

The commission also sought through its rules to eliminate the sham and apparent faking which existed in many wrestling matches.

The records of the commission will show numerous warnings and regulations issued to promoters for violation or infringement of the rules.

The commission existed through the collection of taxes and licenses and had no appropriation. It, therefore, had to operate in debt. The state has not since been in debt and has contributed each year to the state equalization fund.

The detailed report of the commission is of course available in the files at the commission office.

It is the recommendation of the commission that the legislature either amend the existing law so as to give the state control over professional sports or that the law creating the commission be abolished in its entirety and the state equalization fund be used to support any subsequent period which the legislature believes practical.

The commission extends to you its appreciation for your support and expression of its loyalty to you and your administration. None of us sought this service but all have been glad to serve. If at any time in the future you wish any service of us we will be glad to serve.

With all good wishes for the future, we are,

Cordially,

RALPH MCGILL, Chairman.

12 BRACES RUN AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 9.—(AP) Twelve braces ran today in the amateur all-age stake in the Pinehurst Field Trial Club's meet.

One bye dog, running tomorrow morning, will complete the stake, which will be followed by the members' derby.

Sixteen coveys of birds were found in today's running, a fine showing in view of the warm weather.

Dogs finding birds included Shore's Nellie Doone, owned by Raymond Hoagland, of Cartersville, Ga., and Rumson, N. J.; Shore's Zeb Doone, owned by Virgil F. Hayes, of Staunton, Va., and Maple Jake, owned by John Cates, of Spartanburg, S. C.

The club's open events, including the free-for-all, the derby and the puppy stakes, will be drawn tomorrow night after the members' derby is completed.

W. L. Colket, of Philadelphia, and Trammell Scott, of Atlanta, Ga., president of the Southern Association of Baseball Clubs, are judging the trials.

DAVEY O'BRIEN RECEIVES CAMP GRIDIRON AWARD

Many of East's Best-Known Sports Figures Attend Presentation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Many of the east's best known sports figures gathered tonight to see the Touchdown Club present the Walter Camp memorial trophy to Davey O'Brien, All-American back.

George K. Brobeck, chairman of the distinguished guests committee, said of the little athlete as he handed him a big trophy:

"America has seen but few football players who have been so genuinely acclaimed by most all of the fans for their outstanding contributions to the game."

The Texas Christian back was accompanied to the capital by Amos Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and Coach Dutch Meyer. Tad Wieman, head football coach at Princeton, was the principal speaker.

Carnegie Toughest, Says O'Brien.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 9.—(AP) Carnegie Tech was Texas Christian University's "toughest opponent," Davey O'Brien, T. C. U. star, said yesterday as he paused between planes on his way to Washington, where he will be awarded the Walter Camp trophy, and Philadelphia, where he will be awarded the Maxwell trophy.

"I never enjoyed playing against a team so much," he said. "That was the finest bunch of football players I've ever come in contact with. Sure they tried to chase me down, but there was never a kick, never a gouge and not a dirty word. You don't find that often, do you?"

"They charged hard and tackled hard and they never let up. We had to change up our blocking after the first play but it worked pretty well after that."

"Arkansas gave us a hard game too," O'Brien said.

DEMARET WINS $5,000 TOURNEY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(UP) Jimmy Demaret, of Houston, Texas, who gambled when all the rules of tournament golf said he should have played safe, won the $5,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament today with an aggregate of 274 strokes, one over the record.

The 28-year-old Texan whose only previous major victory was scored a year ago in the San Francisco match play tournament, put on the pressure in the final round and finished with a 69 on the par 71 Wilson course at Griffith park.

Some of the edge was taken off Demaret's finish when Harold (Jug) McSpaden, of Winchester, Mass., winner of the recent $10,000 Miami Biltmore tournament, holed out a five-iron shot 100 yards from the final green. The eagle 2 on the par-four hole gave McSpaden a final round of 71, an aggregate of 281, seven strokes behind the winner, and second prize money of $900.

Jimmy Thomson, of Philadelphia, won third prize of $700 with a score of 210-73-283. Fourth money went to E. J. Harrison, of Chicago, who had a card of 210-74-284.

Sam Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Mark Fry, of Oakland, took $350 each with their cards of 285, while four players tied for seventh place at 286, winning $117.50 each: Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y.; Willie Goggin, San Bruno, Cal.; Harry Cooper, Chicago, and Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa.

From here the tournament professional go to Oakland for the $5,000 Oakland open tournament, January 13-15.

Bill Jordan, Ex-Jacket Ace, Weds in Alabama

Bill Jordan, forward on Tech's All-Southeastern Conference championship basketball team of last season, and former All-Southeastern end in football, was married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Hueytown, Ala., to Miss Louise Grant, of Anniston, Ala. Rev. L. D. Tyson performed the ceremony.

Mrs. W. E. Tidmore, of Atlanta, Bill's sister, informed The Constitution of the marriage and stated that the event was a complete surprise to her. She left immediately for Anniston to attend the wedding reception there last night.

Jordan, who has been working in Gadsden, is being transferred to Akron, Ohio, and the couple will leave Wednesday on their honeymoon trip to their new home.

Warren Five Faces Silvertown Tonight

Lautermen Seek Ninth Victory Against Conquerors of Mercer, Albany Blues.

Shep Lauter sends his rangy and powerful Warren quintet out for its sixth straight victory tonight when a dangerous Silvertown five invades Columbus arena. Warren will be seeking its ninth triumph of the season against a foe which holds the only victory scored over a strong Mercer team on a recent barnstorming tour.

Silvertown also has beaten Hogansville (conquerors of J. P. C.), the Albany Blues and the Peersless Blue Devils from Thomaston, who last week made things interesting for the Warren machine.

The main game will start at 8:15 o'clock. At 7 o'clock Warren reserves, beaten only once this campaign, will play the Marietta Athletic Club.

After a slow and erratic start when he knew so little about the ability of his players that Harrison Anderson, now an ace of the team, was an obscure sub, Lauter has whipped Warren into a powerful force, one that already is being given a chance to upset the world champion Celtics here January 17. The Celtics had to battle for their lives to win a two-point thriller last year.

Nehi alone has beaten Warren and few observers would now concede the Columbus boys even an outside chance against the Atlanta team, which has only one player who is not at least a six-footer in the starting lineup. That player is the irrepressible Virlyn Moore Jr., who stands 5 feet 11 and looks many times taller to his opponents because he can do everything a great ball player should be able to do.

Warren showed its true power Sunday in routing Manchester, 67-30. Nehi twice has been beaten by Manchester this season.

After tonight's game, Warren will journey to Carrollton to face the Carrollton Redskins tomorrow night. On Thursday night Southern Eleachery, holder of two southern titles, will invade Warren arena.

SPORTSMAN DIES.

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 9.—(AP)—The body of William Gilbert, 79, Cincinnati, Ohio, financier and formerly a principal stockholder in the Cincinnati Reds, will be sent north by train late today.

Gilbert, who had spent the past 16 winters in Florida, died yesterday at a hospital here after a month's illness.

JACKET CAGERS NOT IMPRESSIVE; EYE BEAR GAME

Starting Lineup for Wednesday Night Tilt Is Still Uncertain.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Gloom which has blanketed Tech's basketball practices this season failed to lift any yesterday as the Jackets took their semi-final workout before the opening battle of the season against Mercer Wednesday night.

The varsity on the whole looked ragged with few exceptions, chiefly the performance of Big Junior Anderson, hefty ball-hawking guard.

Passing and team work failed to please Assistant Coach Roy McArthur, who was in charge as Coach Roy Mundorff was out of the city on business.

The first five to take the court against the Baby Jackets of Norris Dean consisted of Jim Hughes, center; Morris Bryan and Kelly, forwards; and Anderson and Jim Williams, guards. Lettermen George Smith was late to practice but soon replaced Kelly at one of the forward posts.

Anderson followed the ball like a chicken-hawk and showed signs of his old self with accurate passing.

Bryan, of the three sophomores counted on for the first team, showed more ability to get points than anyone else but the freshmen, led by Gunter and Lewis, pierced the varsity defense for numerous goals, indicating Tech's need for defensive practice.

Coach Mundorff, before leaving town, again said he had no idea who would start for the Jackets against the Bears. He issued playing uniforms to 12 men and intimated all would probably see action in the season's opener.

Anderson was quite pleased with his uniform, which bears 18 as a numeral.

"Gosh," Junior said, "we can't lose now. That's my old lucky number. Played with it all during high school and this year on the football team my number was 81, which is only 18 turned around."

DALRYMPLE OFF BROWN '39 STAFF

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Gerald R. "Jerry" Dalrymple, end coach of the Brown football team for the past two years, will not be re-engaged for next season, Deormond McLaughry, head coach, said today.

Dalrymple, at his home in New Orleans, said he had been informed that McLaughry had recommended that he not be re-engaged.

Dalrymple was an All-America end at Tulane in 1930 and 1931 and held coaching posts in three southern colleges before coming to Brown in 1937. Dalrymple's end squad for the past two years was the strongest Brown has had in several seasons.

SPILLWAY WINS.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Joe W. Brown's Spillway won the Battle of New Orleans purse, six-furlong dash, the feature on the Fair Grounds program today. The winner paid $8.60 for $2.

Alf Anderson Signs Crackers' Contract

Second Baseman Led Coastal Plains Hitters Last Season With .368 Mark.

By JACK TROY.

Alf Anderson, the former University of Georgia football and baseball star, has returned his signed contract to the Atlanta Crackers with much the same alacrity and speed as he used to turn the ends of opposing grid foes.

The Crackers figure they have a bright young star in Anderson, who led the Coastal Plain league in hitting and was one of the leading second basemen last season.

Anderson, who played for New Bern under Doc Smith, former Cracker catcher, has been highly recommended by the latter. Doc was here over the week end and could not say enough in praise of Anderson. He doesn't see how the son of Frank Anderson, Oglethorpe coach, can fail to make the grade.

Anderson batted .368 for New Bern and in one nine-inning game collected seven consecutive hits.

President Earl Mann yesterday seemed elated at the manner in which the signed contracts are coming in. Also in yesterday's mail were the signed contracts of Dean Evans, rookie outfielder, and Lowell (Bull) Hamons, right-handed pitcher who had a trial with Atlanta last spring. Hamons pitched part of the season for New Bern and won 16 games.

In addition to these players, Jack Bolling, Marshall Mauldin, Luman Harris and Ted Petroskey have signed up. There's not a holdout in sight.

Bo Johnston Stars On Western Courts

Bo Johnston, all-Southeastern center on Tech's championship five last season, is making quite a name for himself as a court performer on the Pacific coast, according to reports.

Fletcher Sims, teammate and close friend of Bo's, discloses that Johnston is playing on one of the big movie company's team, along with Hank Luisetti and other nationally famous stars.

Y Comrades Defeat Boys' Club Juniors

The Y. M. C. A. Comrade basketball team defeated the Atlanta Boys' Club Juniors, 18 to 13, on the Y. M. C. A. court. Pat O'Sullivan and Jack Etheridge, both of the "Y," played an outstanding defensive game, and contributed much to the Comrade victory.

J. B. WHITWORTH, HARTMAN SEEM SURE OF BERTHS

Lampe, Sikes, Lutz Likely to Stay at Georgia.

By JACK TROY.

The bulk of the Georgia coaching staff in football is expected to be made known tonight following the annual meeting of the University of Georgia athletic board in Athens.

Wallace Butts already installed as head coach, succeeding Joel Hunt, who served for three years, approval of assistants constitutes the chief item to come before the board members.

It is generally expected that developments will include:

1. Approval of J. B. Whitworth as line coach. (He visited Athens yesterday.)
2. Approval of Wild Bill Hartman as backfield coach. (Bobby Hooks, now coaching at Valdosta, is a candidate for the job.)
3. Approval of Quinton Lumpkin as assistant freshman coach under Howell Hollis.
4. Retention of Elmer Lampe as basketball coach.
5. Retention of J. V. Sikes as an assistant line coach.
6. Retention of Forest (Spec) Towns as head track coach.
7. Retention of Fritz Lutz as trainer.

It is not generally expected, however, that the entire set-up will be revealed tonight. The board may announce one or two coaching selections later.

Hartman seems to be the logical selection as backfield coach, inasmuch as he played under Coach Butts at G. M. C., and was sent to Georgia by Butts. Then, too, a year of experience as a Washington Redskins, seems to work in his favor.

Permission of the conference president is needed to award Hartman the job but this is believed to be only a formality. A conference rule prohibits pros, in the ordinary sense, from coaching.

Following is a list of the members of the Bulldog athletic board which meets tonight to officially name the new athletic staff: Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, president of the University; Professor W. O. Payne, Professor J. D. Bolton, Professor R. H. Driftmiller, Professor R. L. McWhorter, Professor Alfred Scott, Dr. W. D. Hooper, Chancellor S. V. Sanford and Dean L. L. Hendren, all of the university; T. S. Melt, Mayor Lon Dudley, of Athens; Marion Smith, Harold Hirsch, Dan MacDougald, of Atlanta; George Woodruff, of Columbus; George Sancken, of Augusta, and A. A. Lawrence, of Savannah. A successor to the late John Welch, of Athens, a member of the board who died recently, has not been named.

Dr. Caldwell is president of the board; Professor Payne, secretary, and Professor Bolton, treasurer.

GOODWIN WINS.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Tommy Goodwin, of New York, former New York state amateur champion, shot a par 70 today to win medal honors in the annual Lake Worth amateur golf tournament.

Tech High-Boys' High Basketball Teams Will Play Tonight

TYPISTS BATTLE MARIST QUINTET IN PRELIMINARY

New City Prep League Opens Season on Henry Grady Course.

By ROY WHITE.

Tech High and Boys' High will open their 1939 athletic wars tonight on the new Henry Grady court in the feature of a double-header basketball card. It's the first prep basketball of the year and the first game to be played on Atlanta's newest basketball court.

Commercial High and Marist College will open the program at 7:30 o'clock, with the Tech High-Boys' High game following.

G. M. A., the other member of the newly organized city prep league, drew an open date and will not swing into action until Friday night.

All the remaining games scheduled for Tuesday will be played in double-headers during the afternoon, except the Boys-Tech High scraps, which will be played at night.

ALL NIGHT GAMES.

All Friday games in the city league will be played at night, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

The league voted to play all the games except the G. M. A. home games on the Henry Grady court. The Cadets will play all their regular scheduled home games on the College Park court in the afternoons on Tuesday and Friday.

Tech High will enter the game with only one regular, Ammons, a forward, returning from last year. Several other members of the team were on the 1938 squad but were not starters.

Supporting Ammons at the other forward position will be Pounds, with Bishman at the pivot and Nichols and Corbett at the guards. Both Nichols and Corbett were on the offense in football, but have been given the defensive posts on the court.

IVY, McDANIEL.

Ivy and McDaniel are the reserve forwards, while Shackelford and Cogburn are the reserve guards.

Coach Tolbert said Monday afternoon that numerous others have been working out each day for the past week, but it being a Tech High-Boys' High scrap, the substitutes are likely to be scarce.

Boys' High also faces a problem of building practically a new team around a couple of holdovers from last year.

Bobby Gaston, son of the former Tech High star, and Jack McKinney are the mainstays on the Purple squad. Gaston will team with Wofin Smith at forward, with Deese at center and McKinney and Chaffin at the guard positions.

GOOD RESERVES.

Doyle, Eddleston, Weinkle, Beach, Cohen and Bowen have been showing up well in practice, but most likely will not see much service tonight.

J. P. C. GUARD HAS JOB TONIGHT

Red Flame Quintet, J. P. C. Play Tonight

Visitors Have Won Eight and Lost None Against Strong Foes This Season.

By MELVIN PAZOL.

Having come through their tough game with Nehi Sunday in great style, J. P. C.'s basketball team tackles the famed Red Flames, otherwise known as Southern Bleachery, of Taylors, S. C., tonight in the main game at the Progressive court on Pryor street. The J. P. C. Cubs will battle Smith Paint in a preliminary game scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

The Progressives have won five games and lost one this season. Tonight they face one of the best independent teams in the south. Bleachery won the southern invitational tournament here last year.

J. P. C. officials announced last night that Pony Mink, regular guard for the past several years, had re-joined the team and would be in the lineup when the Progressives face Southern Bleachery tonight. Mink's return to the squad means J. P. C. has the same five which has represented the club for the past four years.

tational tournament here last year, and this fall added Connie MacBERRY, star North Carolina State center, to their squad of basketball luminaries.

To date they have won eight games and lost none. They hold victories over Chicopee Mills, Dunham Mills, Dixie Gas (twice), Judson Mills, Wofford College (twice), and Furman. The second game with Dixie Gas was a three-point-difference thriller, but the rest of the games have been won by fairly comfortable margins.

VERSATILE SCORERS.

With Bert Hill and Mac Berry in the lineup, the Red Flames have two of the highest scorers among southern basketball players. MacBerry led the Southern conference in points last fall, and Hill was the outstanding player of the tournament here last spring.

Others present were J. B. Leon and W. B. Teague, John A. White, Harold Spears, Bobby Jones, Blythe Thomas and E. J. Swann, Black Rock, and Mort Freeman, James L. Key, Piedmont Park and Candler Park, along with College Park, were not represented.

Another meeting and the election of officers for 1939 is scheduled for early February.

A home and home match of alternating weeks is being planned for the league schedule, with a trophy to be presented the winning team at the end of the season.

A number of other tournaments of interest to all municipal golfers of the city are being worked out by special committees.

W. F. Lowry Takes Columbia Pin Meet

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 9.—W. F. (Carnera) Lowry, outstanding Atlanta, Ga., bowler, won the southeastern individual duckpin championships here, over a large field of formidable competition, with a 10-game score of 1,275.

Lowry had 634 for his first block of five games and 641 in his final block, with scores of 116, 115, 120, 126, 157, 121, 119, 136, 117 and 143 included in the scoring of the winning total that bested the runner-up by 55 pins.

Dave Cauble, Charlotte, was second with 1,240; John Tribble, of Greensboro, had 1,192, and D. Stout, Columbia, fourth with 1,178. Scores of other Atlanta bowlers included 1,119 by L. B. Outler, 1,061 by George McGuire, Lowry Whisenant 1,158 and Hobart Crowe, 1,079.

ADMIRAL JOCKEY OFF THE SADDLE 'TEMPORARILY'

Charley Kurtsinger, Disappointed, Quits Riding for a While.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 9.—(AP) After 14 years of colorful "bootin' th' winner home," Charley Kurtsinger, War Admiral's jockey in 17 triumphs, announced today he had "temporarily" retired. Kurtsinger, disappointed because Samuel D. Riddle had decided another rider would handle War Admiral, indicated the only event to make him change his mind on retiring would be a formidable mount in the 1939 Kentucky Derby and a chance to tie the three victories' record of Earl Sande and Isaac Murphy.

He rode Twenty Grand and War Admiral to win the Derby in 1931 and 1937.

This summer may find Kurtsinger a trainer of one of the most fashionable stables in the country. He would not reveal the name of the sportsman he said had urged him to quit riding two years ago and become his trainer.

One of those rare money saving jockeys, Kurtsinger is the owner of two farms near here, one at Corydon, Ind., and the other in Oldham county, Kentucky. He also boasts among his belongings several brood mares. Only last week he purchased a sire Exerise by The Porter from Bar De Luc, by Collin, from Bob Frakes. Kurtsinger, who started riding in 1924 as apprentice of Roscoe Goose, in addition to scoring two Kentucky Derby victories, won three Belmont races, took two Preaknesses, piloted Jockey Club gold cup winners and registered with Menow in the Futurity.

MUNICIPAL GOLF PLANS MAPPED

Plans for an extensive tournament campaign and a bigger and better Atlanta Public Links Golf Association were completed last night at a dinner at the Robert Fulton hotel.

Getting away to a late start last year, officials of the association called an early meeting to begin work for 1939 and only two of the city's municipal courses failed to be represented.

A committee will soon be appointed to draft a league schedule for regular play during the summer and another group of the association will perfect plans for a series of tournaments to select Atlanta's team to participate in the 1939 National Public Links tournament.

Dave Mitchell, a former National Public Links champion and president of the Atlanta association, was in charge of Monday's meeting. He was assisted by Don Gavan and George Clayton, vice presidents, and Gerrard Allen, treasurer.

Others present were J. B. Leon and W. B. Teague, John A. White, Harold Spears, Bobby Jones, Blythe Thomas and E. J. Swann, Black Rock, and Mort Freeman, James L. Key, Piedmont Park and Candler Park, along with College Park, were not represented.

Another meeting and the election of officers for 1939 is scheduled for early February.

A home and home match of alternating weeks is being planned for the league schedule, with a trophy to be presented the winning team at the end of the season.

A number of other tournaments of interest to all municipal golfers of the city are being worked out by special committees.

ALL IN THE GAME

Terms offered by the Brooklyn Dodgers did not meet with his approval.

Which seems to indicate that it must have been a rather "light" contract, knowing the kindly disposition and willingness to please of Big Fred.

It's really difficult to understand what a fellow is supposed to do. Now, take Big Fred . . .

He went up to Brooklyn at the end of the season from Chattanooga. He appeared in 17 games. And he did just about everything a fellow could do.

He hit .358 and fielded sensationally. He beat out two bunts, stole two bases.

In addition, Sington almost knocked the Chicago Cubs out of the chance to play in the World Series. He got three straight hits off Larry French, one a homer, to tie up the Cubs in a crucial game. It was called on account of darkness. Had Brooklyn won, the Pirates, and not the Cubs, would have faced the Yankees' Murderers' Row.

I noticed at the end of the season where Larry McPhail was strong in his praise of Sington, who had done everything right. And yet, when the time comes to send out contracts in a new season, McPhail apparently forgets what has gone before.

There is talk about sending Big Fred to Nashville. This follows earlier talk about him going to Montreal.

Big Fred doesn't know anything about any of it. All he knows is what he reads in the paper. He read about his being sold to Brooklyn. Everybody else knew it as soon as he did.

I just don't know what a fellow has to do to make good. And neither does Big Fred. But he isn't kicking. He is just waiting for another contract. He figures a fellow has to make a living.

"DOCTOR" QUACK.

It sounded much as if a flock of wild duck had descended on Ponce de Leon park by mistake yesterday. On all sides there were sounds of "quack." It seems that it had something to do with a newspaper picture in which "Doctor" Sanford was examining one of the Crackers. Henceforth, Sanford will be known to all of his friends—count 'em—as "Doctor" Quack.

Watch Your Step—Your Way of Walking Can Make You Look Old

Helen Hayes Changes Walk To Portray Different Age

By Ida Jean Kain.

In the memorable role of Victoria Regina, Helen Hayes played the part of an 18-year-old, a middle-aged woman and an old lady, all in the space of a couple of hours, and she played each age so convincingly that she has taught us the mannerisms and characteristics to avoid if we are to avoid looking unnecessarily older.

Aside from clever makeup, the most noticeable change was in Miss Hayes' walk. As a young girl her step was springy and rapid, even though the steps she took were small and demure. In the middle scenes the stride was longer and less self-conscious. It showed more freedom and confidence. She was, by that time, a busy, middle-aged executive, and her walk showed it.

In the little walking she did as an old lady, her legs moved as though she were carrying a great weight, each one lifting and taking a small step as though it were eager to get back to terra firma again.

Miss Hayes, of course, changed her walk deliberately, but unless we watch our step, our ways of walking can make us look older without our knowing it. If you have a heavy tread, the habit of coming down hard on your heel, bending the leg too much at the knee instead of swinging freely from the hip—in fact, if you do any of the things you shouldn't do in walking, you may be sure that you do add a few years to your appearance. The young walk has a distinct springiness and buoyance, and done correctly it is a thing of beauty.

Victoria was a queen and she never turned into a bent old lady, but in the latter part of the play Miss Hayes made a habit of carrying her head forward, and she was padding between the shoulders and at the back of the neck to add to her appearance of age.

You don't have to wait until you are an old lady to worry—or at least to think—about these signs of age. Some young girls have already acquired the habit of letting the head poke forward and when this happens it is only a short time before pads form at the nape of the neck.

It was no trouble for Miss Hayes to portray the very young Victoria for, in spite of the fact that acting requires a stupendous amount of energy and time, she manages to keep in condition, and that is the secret of her own youthful appearance. She confessed that, as with most of us, her program works by fits and starts, but it sounds pretty regular to me—nine hours sleep a night, daily setting-up exercises, a five-mile walk every day. In the summer she also gardens and swims, believing that some form of outdoor exercise is essential all times and most enjoyable in the summer.

A Girl's Room Needs Lots Of Frills

By Elizabeth McRae Boykin.

"Someday when the children aren't so demanding of my time," writes Mrs. H. S., "I'm going to take a course in interior decorating—that's how much I like it. I read everything I can, but so far I don't seem to be able to create a really beautiful room by myself. So I come to you for help."

In Fan Design.

"The bedroom I'm now working on is north exposure and rather dreary. It's for my daughters who are almost young ladies. So I've chosen an exquisite wall paper with white fans on a soft pink ground. It's expensive, so I'm just using it on the longest wall—the other walls and the woodwork will be in pale shell pink, and I'd planned a wall-to-wall carpet in an ivory tone broadloom. The curtains will be full white organdy with seven-inch ruffles of white organdy embroidered in blue polka dots—the swag valance will be dotted, too. The dressing table skirt will be made like the curtains and so will the flounce for the bench.

"The bed was a good maple one originally but when the children were in their babyhood they scratched it unmercifully so, rather than discard it, I had my husband cut the top of the bed and take the footboard off entirely, then he screwed on a shaped plywood headboard and I've upholstered it in white quilted chintz and made a matching spread. This bed will have a canopy draped on the wall the same as the curtain. I shall keep the chair and ottoman in their present coverings—with quilted pink chintz embroidered in small pastel flowers. The slipper chair is a soft dusty pink satin with deeply tufted back and seat and a knife pleated ruffle."

French Reproductions.

"Now would it be all right to introduce a bold flowered green chintz wing chair with pink to rose and white flowers. This would be against one of the plain walls? The dresser and odd tables are French reproductions painted white and antiqued. The lamps are white porcelain with pastel flowers and then there are two with crystal shades and embroidered polka dot shades."

"Do you think there are too many ruffles and fluff in the room? Is the room too airy? Is it permissible to use organdy with French furniture? The girls love all sorts of frou-frou—the more ruffles the merrier as far as they're concerned. Should I have a mahogany table or two and introduce a mahogany desk? Is it not considered 'nice' to use artificial flowers? If so, what kind and color would you suggest? What about containers? Should the blinds be pink or white? Do you think glazed chintz suitable in such a dainty room or should I use dull sheen taffeta or moire? Thanks for your help!"

The Answer.

That room sounds very charming for young girls, and since it's for them, I think organdy would be perfectly all right to use with French furniture. Usually I prefer some softer fabric, such as celanese nylon or one of the rayon nylons. I'm a little dubious about the green chintz chair—it sounds too bold for the room, but if it looks all right to your eye, leave it there. The mahogany pieces might supply all the accent you need. Personally I'm not too set on artificial flowers, but they're used in very proper places and they do add freshness and gaiety to a room. I'd like purple ones in this room. I think—in crystal vases, I think the pink blinds would be the thing. Glazed chintz goes in the best society, so I'd have it here by all means. I wouldn't mind a bit seeing a dash of mauve

Norma Shearer Falls While Skating And Is Rescued by Forty People

By Sheila Graham.

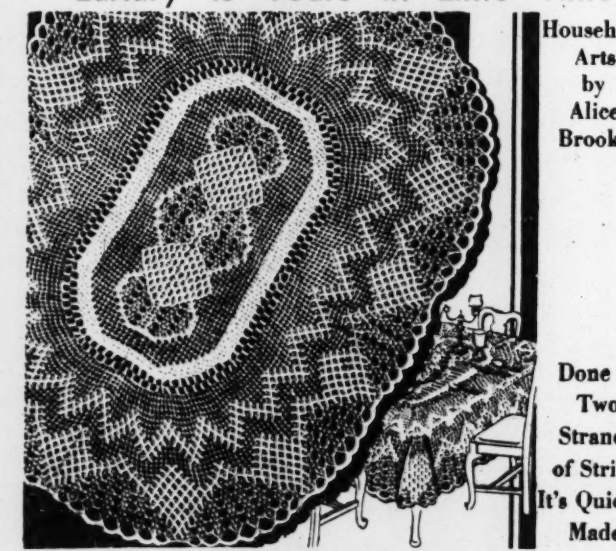

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 9.—Norma Shearer at the Tropical Skating Gardens. She trips on the ice, and approximately 40 people rush to put her on her feet. It takes Miss Shearer 15 minutes to get out from under their good intentions.

Howard Hughes overheard talking "Home and Kidding" with Olivia De Havilland . . . Deanna Durbin entertains 10 relatives from Canada, all of whom are staying at the palatial Durbin mansion . . . One man's triumph is another man's let-down. "They Made Me a Criminal" (a grand picture) was all that John Garfield needed to prove his permanent right to screen stardom. But Claude Rains, who plays his smallest role to date in it, says: "Don't mention that picture—I shall never see it." If it is any consolation to Mr. Rains, he is very good in his practically nonexistent part.

John Barrymore fuming on the "Midnight" set because the picture is taking too long to complete, and is jeopardizing the opening date of his forthcoming play with Elaine on Broadway . . . Clark Gable has lunch with 100 midgets from "The Wizard of Oz" company. And is served the same portion as the midgets. P. S. He had himself another lunch . . . Bob Burns tells me he does not want to be a gentleman farmer; he wants to be a practical or paying farmer. Mr. Burns owns 150 acres near Chatsworth—about 30 miles from here—and employs seven men to collect his oats, lima beans and alfalfa . . . Don Ameche, who plays Alexander Graham Bell in the picture of that name, is getting very tired of the people who shout at him, "Hey, Mr. Bell, we want you to fix our telephone."

George Raft moans anxiously to the director of "The Lady From Kentucky"—"But what happens to me?"

Princess House Dress

By Barbara Bell

You couldn't look nater nor slimmer than you will in this simple, cleverly designed house dress (1642-B). The princess cut, with its tiny waist, is always so flattering to those who take women's sizes. And the scalloped neckline and sleeve edges, brightened with braid or bias fold, add their touch of charm, too. This dress, in fact, deserves, really, to be made up in thin wool or flat crepe for run-about, as well as in tubfast cottons for the house.

It assures you perfect comfort for working, you see, because the beltless line is unrestraining, the hemline is sufficiently wide, and the armholes sufficiently deep. This dress goes on in a jiffy, too, and buttons or zips down the front. It's a particularly easy design to make; a detailed sew chart is included for the guidance of beginners.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1642-B is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 34 requires 4 3/4 yards of 35-inch material; 1 7/8 yards of braid or bias fold.

How Can Wife Get Back In Race?

By Caroline Chatfield.

Ever see a chicken with its neck wrung? It's a fearful sight to a chicken-hearted person seeing it for the first time. The poor fowl flops this way and that, covering a lot of ground; but getting nowhere because there's no head to guide it. There's a fair parallel in the wife whose husband has stepped out on her and confessed there's another woman in his blood.

She flops this way and that, covering a lot of ground, getting nowhere because there's no head to guide her. She starts off with tears; but tears don't move a man unless he's tender toward the eyes that shed them. Then pleas for pity; but he's stone deaf to her voice, while another voice is ringing in his ears.

After tears and pleas come threats which aren't convincing and carry no weight; since there are emotions stronger than fear and the husband is electrified with them. She tries another tack, appealing to his sense of honor and fairness; but he's temporarily without both. And yet another: she begs the rival to be generous, step out of the picture, send him back to his family; but the rival is convinced he'd rather be tarred and feathered and she argues that she can't send him back unless he's willing to go.

One more flop before the wife collapses: she throws the children into the breach. Surely he won't trample them in his wild scramble to get away. But he will; for there are instincts that take precedence over parental affection and obligation and these instincts are thoroughly aroused in father's breast.

Yet, with it all the wife's case isn't hopeless if she can regain her reason and her dignity, keep her own counsel and be the friend in need to the wretched husband who isn't getting any pleasure out of life at home or abroad. The conflict that's going on inside him is devastating. Down deep in his heart he loves his home and his family. He doesn't want to forfeit the respect and affection of his children; the solid comfort and satisfaction of his fireside.

This madness won't be upon him long; while it is, he's not man enough to meet the tear-stained face of his injured wife, the contemptuous glances of his children, the reproaches that are in the very air of the house.

What should the wife do? Throw back to the days when love was new; cultivate the qualities that once endeared her to her husband, swallow her chagrin, hide her humiliation, treat her husband, not as a criminal, but as a friend in trouble. She can get back in the race, take advantage of her inside position to come first under the wire the winner.

Don't Let Poor Speech Keep You Down

Poor Julie! Can't make the grade with people she really cares about, but fed up with loud-mouthed Bob.

How she winces at his rough "I ain't" and "I seen." Little does Julie suspect she offends cultivated audiences if you do not offend with his crudities—when she says, "He sure did that quick."

It's so easy to learn to say, "He certainly did that quickly." There's no reason why anyone should make gross mistakes in English. Simple to check your speech with a list of common errors at hand. Quickly you discover how wrong you've been in clattering your talk with superfluous words—"The knife fell off of the table." "Lunch was over with when I arrived."

It's correct to say, "The knife fell off the table." "Lunch was over when I arrived."

Making a report, reading a paper at the club, your English meets the approval of those college women in the audience if you do not mislead words which seem alike—economic, economical—accept, except.

Here are examples of correct usage: "The economic condition of the country." "It's more economical to buy in quantity." "I'm glad to accept the nomination." "We're all here, except Mary."

Grooming your speech to make it cultivated and charming takes only a few minutes a day. Out for a walk, practice to yourself such expressions as "Between you and me," instead of that careless and incorrect "Between you and I."

Don't let poor speech keep you from getting ahead in life. Our 40-page booklet, "Common Errors in English," shows you how to improve your speech. Lists hundreds of common errors and gives correct usage in each case. Helps you to make the grade with top-grade people.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, COMMON ERRORS IN ENGLISH, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

MY DAY How Differently People Can See Same Things

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—I must tell you something which has keenly amused me. In a very large envelope bearing in the left-hand corner "Manufacturers Trust Company," with a New York city address, I found inclosed a part of a newspaper sheet. It had been cut off just above the column written by General Hugh Johnson the day after the President's speech to congress, and in red pencil the following words were underlined: "Mr. Roosevelt first waved the bloody shirt," and then in the last paragraph, "Weakness peers through every sentence."

At the bottom of the page was my column and here the words were underlined again in red, "I was, in spite of myself, swept into emotions that lay back of the speaker's words," and underneath in red pencil, "You damn fool!"

In the same mail from an extraordinarily fine person, who seems to find black ink as good a vehicle for expression as red, I found the following words: "A marvelous speech, stating temperately the necessary position of democracies, and wisely making the appeal to a unified country."

How differently people can see the same thing. After all, no one knows what lies in the backgrounds of our experience and our training to make us interpret the same words in such different ways.

Our spring weather still continues, and I managed yesterday and today to have some time out-of-doors. As we were riding home yesterday, I told Captain Waddell, who rides with me, that I thought my horse was a spoiled baby, for she even has a preference for one side of the road, and whoever rides with me always remembers this and rides on the other side. Captain Waddell's reply was that I would be glad to have a good man like her, and he was afraid that I was spoiled and would never find any horse quite as good as she is. Considering her age, this is a discouraging thought, and yet I know he is right. Our new Mexican Palomino, who belongs to John, has the same type of intelligence, and you can talk to him and trust him in just the way I feel I can count on "Dot."

Ethel and Franklin had their baby christened here yesterday afternoon by Bishop Atwood, who has so many friends with our family and Groton boys in general. This is the second one of our grandchildren to be christened here, and one of our silver bowls, which we brought with us when we came, is shortly going to be put aside as a christening bowl, I think. This baby never even whimpered. Perhaps there is no "devil" in him to come out!

The Jackson Day dinner, as far as the speeches were concerned, was very entertaining. I felt very much honored, for I sat at the same table, though somewhat removed, with Senator Connally, ex-Senator Bulkley, Senator Byrd and Senator Glass. All the speakers told good stories which gave rise to much laughter, but some of the more serious aspects which lay behind the stories may give us all good reason for thought in the future.

Look on Your Vitamins As Food--Not as Medicine

By Dr. William Brady.

Theoretically or ideally we should get all the vitamins we require in our daily food, or from exposure to sunshine. Some physicians, in the light of the limited knowledge of nutrition we had a decade ago, assumed that most people did get enough vitamins in these ideal or natural ways. Today no well informed physician practices on that hazardous principle. Since scientific animal experimentation and human observation have taught us in more accurate terms what the physiological requirements of the body are, it has become impossible to escape the conclusion that, in our present mode of life, practically every one suffers in some degree from vitamin deficiency, however liberal and well balanced his diet may be.

An important principle to keep always in mind, in relation to vitamin physiology, pathology and therapy, is that vitamins are primarily and essentially food and not medicine. The chief function of vitamins is to promote normal nutrition, normal growth, normal function; secondarily vitamins prevent those nutritional disorders which are the deficiency diseases; finally, in the hands of the physician, vitamins may sometimes effect the cure of disease.

A few years ago, when physicians first began to recognize the importance of an adequate intake of vitamins for the maintenance of health and the prevention of deficiency derangements, some doctors, not yet clearly comprehending the nature of vitamins, and regarding them as medicine, conceived the notion that harm might be done by "overdose" or by too much of this or that vitamin.

This imaginary danger of "overdose" was associated particularly with the feeding of vitamin D to infants and children for the prevention of manifestations of rickets. There were even a few reports published in the medical journals purporting to show "toxic" or even fatal effects from enormous quantities of concentrated vitamin D, but these reports were subject to equivocal interpretation because of the peculiar circumstances of the cases concerned and were far from convincing to any one at all familiar with vitamin technology. More recently, however, carefully controlled clinical observation has proved beyond question that prolonged daily feeding of massive quantities of vitamin D from 200,000 to 400,000 units daily over periods of many weeks or months, in the treatment of arthritis, psoriasis, acne, hay fever, etc., produce no serious untoward effects.

For that matter, it now appears doubtful whether any quantity of any or all known vitamins ever does any harm. After all, vitamins are food. Probably some confusion about this arises from the recognition of minimal, adequate and optimal intakes of certain vitamins, such as vitamin C. A small quantity of vitamin C in the daily intake may suffice, for a time and under otherwise favorable circumstances, to prevent definite manifestations of scurvy. A slightly more liberal daily intake will keep the individual at a fair degree of health, as health goes—just tolerable, you know. But an abundant daily intake of vitamin C promotes better than ordinary health, a superior state of nutrition, fitness, etc. But the last mentioned condition is, of course, the most nearly perfect health attainable.

Newly Decorated Mansion Will Provide Setting for Affair

By Sally Forth.

THE newly and beautifully decorated Governor's Mansion will form the setting for the brilliant inaugural reception scheduled for tomorrow afternoon when several hundred prominent Georgians will assemble in honor of Governor and Mrs. Rivers. Tomorrow's affair recalls the brilliant reception held at the mansion two years ago in celebration of Governor Rivers' first inauguration as Georgia's chief executive.

Standing before a bank of palms, foliage plants and baskets of poinsettias, Governor and Mrs. Rivers will head the receiving line that will form in the mansion's spacious drawing room. The floral arrangement will provide an attractive base for the handsome oil painting of the former state mansion in Milledgeville, which hangs over the mantel and is one of the outstanding pictures gracing the walls of the magnificent gray-stone house in Ansley Park.

Receiving with the Chief Executive and Georgia's First Lady will be Chief Justice Charles Reed, of the Georgia supreme court; John B. Spivey, president of the senate, and Mrs. Spivey, and Roy V. Harris, speaker of the house, and Mrs. Harris. As hundreds of guests gather and mingle in congenial groups throughout the mansion, a number of matrons from Lakeland, the south Georgia home of Governor and Mrs. Rivers, will assist in entertaining. They will include Mesdames T. E. Miller, John Greer, R. Simpson, James Lovejoy, Thomas Exum, J. W. Webb, L. L. Patten, Louis Smith, O. A. Spence, Warren Moorman and W. C. Banks.

Atlanta matrons assisting will be Mesdames J. Schley Thompson, Fred Wilson, D. B. Blalock, H. W. Evans, W. B. Brantley and John L. Connor. A musical program will be presented by a well-known trio of musicians who will play appropriate numbers during the calling hours. The trio includes Mrs. Eleanor Whittington Hodges, cello; Mrs. Dossie Lee, pianist, and Kenneth Whittington, violin. They will be seated in the music room, which features a color motif of soft green colors against cream-tinted walls. Fashioned of a deep shade of green silk moire, the draperies form an artistic note in the room, where a large modern unframed mirror hangs over the mantel.

The oak-paneled dining room will be decorated with quantities of red roses. The handsome state silver will adorn the dining table, and the exquisite silver punch bowls will be presided over by alternate groups of the assisting matrons.

Jerry, pretty daughter of the state's first family, will be present for the auspicious occasion, and she and her sister, Mrs. Ed Rivers Jr., will also assist in the entertainment of the guests. The visit here this week of Jerry, who attends the University of Georgia, is of double significance, for this lovely college belle celebrates her 19th birthday today. This evening her parents entertain at an informal dinner at the mansion for their daughter, the guests to be limited to members of the family.

For tomorrow's reception Mrs. Rivers will wear a handsome gown of black crepe fashioned

THERE IS ONLY ONE
Don Lawrence Invites Alix to Another Party, Offers Her a Job; She Accepts

By Margaret Gorman Nichols.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Alix Barton is only 18 when her father, a clergyman in a small Maryland town, dies suddenly and her semi-invalid mother soon follows him. She goes to Baltimore and by sacrifice and study secures a position as a typewriter operator. The first two years are very lonesome and she worries about her brother Tod who got into trouble when boys broke into a home-town store and stole some tires. He is now on a tramp steamer. After two years she meets Tuck Martin, a motherly social worker for 30 years, and they are very happy in their housekeeping arrangements. Alix likes Eddie Barrett, whose family until recently was wealthy but who is now working for $25 a week. He takes her to a party given by Don Lawrence and his debutante daughter Nancy where she meets Kurt Deering and on the instant falls in love with him. Kurt makes a date for dinner two nights later. When Eddie asks how he "stands with" her, she says he is her best friend next to Tuck, but she doesn't love him. Her employer becomes infatuated with a new girl and shuns her to Don Alix's work. Fearing demotion or discharge, Alix resigns. She is attracted by Alix but can't forget Gina Rowland, the beautiful actress who killed him. Nancy's mother, Bernice, who divorced the flirtatious Don, tells her about Gina. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

younger than himself, a girl who'll want only his money and position. For six years," she said quietly, "I've been living in the death of love. It's done something to me. Poisoned me and frightened me. I could never be in love with any of the boys I know. They're mostly college boys and they've never had a serious thought. If it's ever to be any one, it will have to be some one who's been hurt and warped, too. We'd understand each other."

Hurt and warped—like Tod, Alix thought. It was odd to link this rich and elegant girl with the boy who scrubbed decks. Who had scrubbed decks, she corrected instantly, and fears for his safety rose again in a flash.

Alix was wearing the black net dress when at a little past 10 o'clock that night Don called for her.

"Nancy tells me you're not working," he said as they walked across the court. "That won't do—if you really want a job. There's always room in my office for one more. As a matter of fact, Sally, my priceless secretary, is leaving me to become a country doctor's wife, and there's nobody in the office who can take over her job. Nobody good enough. Suppose you come down to my office on Monday and we'll talk about it."

But despite the soft, even tones of Bernice's calm voice, her words went through Alix like sharp thrusts. "It's Gina Rowland, the actress," Bernice said.

Low, Alix said, "Oh, that Gina," and remembered photographs of a tall, slender girl with black hair and black eyes. Gina Rowland, returning from Paris wearing the latest fashions, photographed against the background of a luxury liner; Gina Rowland in an exclusive fashion magazine wearing a startling gown and many diamond bracelets. That Gina...

Bernice said, "Kurt met her two years ago. He was mad about her. She's clever and beautiful and charming. He wanted her to marry him immediately but her career postponed it. She'd worked hard and a big opportunity presented itself. But when the play closed after an unsuccessful run and everybody thought they'd be married, she met somebody else, a man richer than Kurt. That was a year ago. But she didn't marry the other man. I don't know what happened. But I do know what it did to Kurt..."

Nancy said, "It nearly killed him. He tried not to let anybody know, but we all knew. He hasn't seen her for a year. But he's still in love with her."

Alix was grateful when lunch was announced. She scarcely knew that she was eating for putting together the love story of Kurt and Gina. "I know now," she thought. "I know." But that didn't help. It made it worse.

It was twilight when she drove back to town with Nancy. "Love!" Nancy said with scorn. "I'll never fall in love because I've seen what it can do to you. I've seen what it has done to my mother. When love goes wrong, it breaks you and destroys you. I don't want any of it."

"Does she still love your father?" She asked about him. "I'm sure she does but I've never asked her. He despises her for divorcing him. It's hopeless. And one of these days he'll marry again, marry somebody years after, "Don't accept. You'll get involved with him." But who was he to tell a girl he was seeing for the third time what to accept and what to reject? And yet the thought of her being next on Don's list of flirtations and people saying when they saw them together at parties and night clubs, "Don Lawrence has a new blonde," annoyed and bothered him.

"I met Bernice today," Alix said. She had to say something to keep him from thinking. After a year was she still thinking of Gina Rowland when his dark eyes had that absent look?

"She's fine, isn't she?" he asked.

Then Don came over to them. After that she was separated from Kurt for the remainder of the evening but when the party was breaking up, he came to her again.

"I'm taking Alix home," he said to Don. "You're already home."

Don said, "Okay," lightly, but Alix knew he resented it.

Kurt drove first to Angela's little restaurant for waffles and strawberry jam but the lights were out and the dark shade had been drawn to the sill.

"She's probably in church," he said, smiling. "When Angela feels the need of church, she goes. Nothing stops her. A hungry army could march by but she'd close up shop and go. Are you hungry, Alix? What do you say to dropping by my apartment? Jaffers, the servant I inherited along with my furniture, is a swell chap and he makes swell coffee. The old boy never goes to bed till 11 in any way. What do you say?"

Make it last a little longer, Alix thought. This is all you will ever have of him, snatched little moments like this...

She laughed quietly and said, "Well, since Angela won't feed us..."

When he opened the door of his apartment and she stepped inside, the living room was what she expected—a man's kingdom. It was furnished with old massive pieces made for comfort and there was an oil painting on the wall of a distinguished old man. His father, no doubt. There were books everywhere and a fire burned low in the grate of a brick fireplace.

And there was a photograph of Gina Rowland on the desk. Why did an ache pass through her when the beautiful eyes seem to meet hers? Defiant eyes that seemed to say, "It doesn't matter who you are or how much you love him because he will always love me." Alix stood still, thinking, "You gave him up. How could you? He loved you and lost you? How could you hurt him so?"

Kurt asked, looking first at the photograph and then at the living girl beside it, "Do you know her? You've heard of her of course. Perhaps you've seen her on the stage."

"No. But today I..."

"Today you learned about her and me?"

Suddenly he was close to her, but Gina's picture was between them. Alix thought, "He likes me but he'll never love me. I'll never reach his heart. He closed his heart when he lost her, and he'll never let anybody else in. He has so much to remember about her. When you love and lose, at least you have your memories. I won't even have them."

The moment of intimacy was broken when Jaffers came in with the coffee. Alix pushed it away.

Kurt said, "You're a charming hostess and very ornamental."

She smiled. "In somebody else's house? Don't speak too soon. I may drop the beautiful china."

He sat back and looked at her steadily. "You believe in things, don't you, Alix?"

"I'm the daughter of a clergyman," he said, and glanced at the clock over the fireplace. "And a clergyman's daughter shouldn't be out at this hour and especially in a man's apartment with Jaffers in the next room. I really must go." The brevity and emptiness of these little minutes hurt so much.

"You're the second girl ever to set foot in here except when I have parties," he said.

"Don asked me to come down to his office on Monday."

He nodded. Don had made his customary gesture. He wanted to

"Every woman ought to have some dealings with a man man. It's the only way some of them can learn sense enough to thank Heaven for a good one."
